Strikes Cut Industrial Output To Lowest Point Since 1946

Production Slumps About 11½ Per Cent In Single Month

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28 (AP)—The nation's industrial production, hit hard by the steel and coal strikes, has slumped about 11½ per cent in a single month to the lowest level since the spring of 1946, the Federal Reserve Board estimated today.

Preliminary figures for October indicate a 20-point sag in the board's seasonally adjusted index, which stood at 172 in September. The base, 100.0, represents the average for the five prewar years, 1935 to 1939.

The index has recorded a modest two-point rise from August to September, but the coal and steel shutdowns cancelled that and set off a downward plunge.

Steel Down To 9 Per Cent

Although President Truman told a news conference yesterday that the two big strikes have not resulted in a national emergency at this time, the Federal Reserve Board noted that steel production was curtailed to nine per cent of capacity beginning October 1, compared with 83 per cent in September.

"Minerals output has declined sharply since the middle of September as a result of work stoppages at most coal mines," their report added.

The soft coal strike has been on 37 days, the steel strike 28.

Mr. Truman's hands-off stand on the big strikes, with no prospect of immediate federal intervention, left the task of settling them up to the disputants themselves, plus whatever help federal mediators can offer.

Tough Jobs For Mediators

The mediators faced tough situations in both strikes. The No. 1 federal conciliator, Cyrus Ching, has been talking fruitlessly for more than a week with officials of United States Steel and with officials of the striking CIO steelworkers union, which is headed by CIO President Philip Murray. Ching met with "Big Steel's" officials again today—but not with Murray.

Negotiations for settlement of the coal strike were at a standstill. John L. Lewis hasn't stated exactly what he wants for his United Mine Workers, although the list includes shorter hours, more pay and a higher contribution by the industry to the miners welfare fund.

Atom Agreement Is Held Possible

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 28 (AP)—United Nations Assembly President Carlos P. Romulo said tonight the door is not closed to possible agreement among the nations on a plan to control atomic energy.

He said in a statement to the reporters the reason for his belief in the face of the continuing East-West stalemate was to be found in President Truman's speech at the laying of the United Nations cornerstone in New York last Monday.

Romulo said Mr. Truman had declared the United States would continue to support the United Nations plan for atomic control "unless or until a better and more effective plan is put forward."

The assembly president said that phrase "is significant because it does mean that the door is not closed to a possible agreement on a 'better and more effective plan.' It does not despair that such a plan will yet be discovered, discussed and approved."

Tossing Dummy From Plane Young Flier's Idea Of Joke

SALISBURY, Md., Oct. 28 (AP)—Making everyone think someone has fallen out of an airplane is Sidney Parsons' idea of a joke.

That's the explanation the young flier gave today for an incident yesterday near Pittsview, Md., about 10 miles east of here.

Parsons, a Salisbury police officer, went for a spin in a small biplane, taking with him Mrs. Ernest Clark, Pittsview, a friend.

The pilot did about all the acrobatic stunts he knew over Pittsview. At one point, when the plane was upside down, a man appeared to fall out and plummet 2,000 feet.

It was a dummy—a suit of coveralls stuffed with paper. Its gyrations

Ching Asks Three More Steel Firms To Join Meetings

NEW YORK, Oct. 28 (AP)—Top Federal Mediator Cyrus S. Ching got CIO President Philip Murray on the telephone today and a short time later invited three more steel companies to join his peace talks.

He would not say at a news conference whether his action held any evidence of hopes for a settlement of the 28-day-old steel strike.

The mediator held another six-hour conference with United States Steel, the seventh in the last 10 days. He also held two recent meetings with Bethlehem Steel, he added.

Ching said he now is inviting three other large steel firms to a two-day conference in Washington beginning Sunday or Monday. These are Youngstown Sheet and Tube, Republic Steel and Jones and Laughlin.

Textile Workers Donate $250,000 To Steel Strikers

Union May Also Pass Hat Among Members

CLEVELAND, Oct. 28 (AP)—The CIO Textile workers Union has contributed $250,000 to support the four-week-old strike of the nation's steelworkers.

This was learned today as arrangements were whipped into shape for next week's CIO convention.

The contribution boosted the steelworkers' war chest from outside sources to $350,000. The CIO United Auto Workers executive board appropriated $100,000 to the fund earlier this week.

Plan To Pass Hat

The textile workers, headed by right-wing President Emil Rieve, also were reported preparing to pass the hat among the union's 350,000 members. The goal of this drive would be another $250,000.

The merge of the CIO's Farm Equipment Workers into the United Electrical Workers lent additional ammunition for a slam-bang right wing-left wing battle at the convention.

The Farm Equipment Workers' executive board said in Chicago that the merger was approved by an 84 per cent majority, reducing the international union to the status of a division of the left-wing UE.

In merging with the electrical workers, the FE violated a year-old CIO order to join with Walter Reuther's right-wing United Auto Workers.

Won't Recognize Merge

The FE has a membership of about 20,000; the UE about 400,000. CIO Vice President Allan S. Haywood said the newly-announced merger would not be recognized by the CIO and will have no effect on the size of delegations representing either the FE or the UE.

The resolutions committee, under the firm leadership of CIO United Auto Workers President Walter Reuther, strengthened a foreign policy statement this afternoon after earlier left-wing opposition to a milder one.

The text of the resolution was not made public. But is presumably reaffirmed the CIO's support of the Marshall Plan and the Atlantic pact, which left-wingers have opposed.

NLRB Rules Printer Union Violates T-H

ITU's "Bargaining Strategy" Illegal

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28 (AP)—The National Labor Relations Board today unanimously held the AFL International Typographical Union guilty of violating the Taft-Hartley Act.

The board said the big printers union had set up illegally a "bargaining strategy" which tried to impose closed shop conditions in the newspaper publishing industry.

The Taft-Hartley Act bans the closed shop under which only union members can get jobs.

The board ordered both the ITU and its Chicago Local No. 16 not to try to force "discrimination" against employees in violation of the act.

Rules In Two Cases

The board ruled in two cases—charges growing out of the 22-month Chicago newspaper strike which was settled last month; and charges filed by the American Newspaper Publishers Association on behalf of its 800 newspaper members.

The "bargaining strategy" which the board condemned was an attempt to impose "conditions of employment," under which ITU members would work without a contract.

The board called this an effort to compel employers to maintain closed shop conditions "by the use of a continuing threat to strike."

Actually the ITU and its top officers have been under a federal court injunction since March 27, 1948, forbidding them to engage in the bargaining practices which were alleged to be violations of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Injunction Will End

A board official said the injunction will end when the board's decision is entered in the court, which will be done at once. The decree was handed down by District Judge L. M. Swygert at Indianapolis.

Gerhard P. Van Arkel, ITU general counsel, said the union has the right of appeal but the next step had not been determined.

The board also ordered the ITU in the ANPA case not to interfere with employers in selection of foremen. This action was by a four to one vote. The union had insisted that newspapers hire only foremen who are members of the union.

The board threw out unanimously a hard fought complaint that the ITU violated the Taft-Hartley law provision which bans "feather bedding." This is a term describing payment for services which are not to be performed.

Thomas Ordered To Stand Trial

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28 (AP)—Rep. J. Parnell Thomas (R-NJ)—today was ordered to stand trial next month on fraud charges after a federal court was advised the long-ailing lawmaker now is well enough to handle "two or three highballs before dinner and three to four cigars daily."

This report on Thomas' condition was included in a detailed clinical analysis prepared by two private physicians here. They examined the 54-year-old Congressman last Wednesday at the request of Federal Judge Alexander Holtzoff.

Holtzoff promptly ordered that Thomas be on hand November 7 when the twice-deferred fraud hearings are scheduled to get underway.

Thomas, one-time chairman of the House Un-American Activities committee, was indicted November 8, charged with conspiring to defraud the government out of $1,698,37 by padding his office payroll and through "kickbacks" from his employees.

If convicted, the 54-year-old lawmaker faces a maximum of 32 years in prison and fines amounting to $40,000.

Holtzoff also ordered Thomas former secretary, Miss Helen Campbell, to appear for trial November 7. She was indicted on a conspiracy charge at the same time Thomas was aird, if convicted, faces a maximum of two years in prison plus a $10,000 fine.

Both have been free under bond of $1,000 and $500 respectively ever since the indictments were returned by a federal grand jury here last year.

Cost Of Living Shows Rise Of One Half Of One Per Cent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28 (AP)—An increase of one-half of one per cent in the cost of living was reported today by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The rise in consumer prices from mid-August to mid-September was the largest monthly increase last year.

The cost of almost everything the consumer buys went up a little, except clothing. Apparel prices were down about one-tenth of one per

Boy Rescued From Abandoned Well

Bobby Gow, 3, is lifted from an abandoned well where he was trapped for three hours at Austin, Tex., yesterday. He fell feet down the eight-inch pipe while playing. Steam shovels and volunteer workers dug down around the well pipe and the child was pulled to safety from a hole cut into the metal casing.

Denfeld's Firing From Navy Post Brings Protests

Legislators Clamor For Matthews' Scalp

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28 (AP)—A storm of protest broke today over the firing of Adm. Louis Denfeld as the Navy's top admiral, and at least two Congress members demanded that Secretary of the Navy Matthews resign.

Matthews met Denfeld face-to-face and offered him a new lesser post, but Denfeld kept silent on whether he will accept it or throw up his 40-year naval career entirely. An aide, Capt. Walter Karig, said the Admiral probably would do the latter.

Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) called for Matthews to resign "so that a new top team can function properly." He said it is "imperative" for Matthews to quit.

Bates Echoes Knowland

Rep. Bates (R-Mass.) also clamored for the scalp of Matthews, who insisted that Denfeld be shifted from the post of chief of naval operations. President Truman announced the shift yesterday.

Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers (R-Mass.) said the ousting of Denfeld and announced cuts in naval strength had thrust "a dagger into the heart of the United States Navy."

"What the enemy could not do by gunfire, torpedoes and kamikazis, politicians have achieved by the fatal blue liquid spray of a pen," Mrs. Rogers said.

Meanwhile, Capt. Karig, Denfeld's special aide, said a number of naval associates of Denfeld have told the Admiral they were "ready to turn in their suits." Karig said Denfeld advised them all to stay in the service.

Vinson Vows House Action

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.), of the House Armed Services Committee, said the ouster will be "dealt with" on the floor of the House in January, and in his committee's report on the armed services row.

Vinson charged that Denfeld had been forced to "walk the plank" in reprisal for his testimony before the House committee in angry hearings on the split in the military high command. Denfeld told the committee two weeks ago that the Navy's attack power was being ruined under the unified defense setup.

Boy Rescued After Falling Down 18-Foot Cistern Pipe

Picture Raises Question; Does Princess Smoke?

LONDON, Oct. 28 (AP)—A picture of Princess Elizabeth's private desk published today disclosed that it contained, of all things, an ash tray.

"So does the Princess smoke?" inquired Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express in a headline.

The newspaper left its readers to draw their own conclusions from the camera's circumstantial evidence, though the 23-year-old heiress has never been seen taking a puff in public or even at semi-private functions.

Part of her royal job is to serve as a model for young folks.

Lollar Admits He Is Ex-Klansman

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 28 (AP)—Coleman A. (Brownie) Lollar today admitted for the first time that he is former Ku Klux Klansman. But he claimed he is not a flogger and never had been one.

The 35-year-old balding ex-special deputy entered a blanket denial from the stand to a charge of flogging while masked.

His trial is the first of 18 men arrested on charges arising from a wave of night riding activities of hooded and robed men here last spring.

Lollar testified almost two hours. The defense then rested and the state began calling rebuttal witnesses.

There was little likelihood the case would reach the jury tonight. Mrs. Hugh McDanail, 42-year-old grandmother, identified Lollar as one of her attackers the night of June 10 in earlier testimony. She said members of the mob "accused me of selling whisky and renting my rooms."

Lollar testified he had never seen Mrs. McDanail before she entered the courtroom at the start of his trial. Asked if he had ever been in her home, he answered:

"No sir. I don't know where it is."

He said he went to a baseball game the night of the raid on the McDanail home. Three of his neighbors had testified they accompanied him to the game.

Child Lifted From Hole Cut In Shaft

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 28 (AP)—Bobby Andrew Gow, a three-year-old tyke with reddish golden hair, fell down an 18-foot cistern pipe today, but frantic workers rescued him three hours later.

He was rushed to an Austin hospital, where his condition was reported good.

Cheers and hand clapping came from the crowd of spectators when Bobby appeared after his ordeal.

"They've got him . . . he's alive," cried men and women watching as Master Mechanic M. R. Miller of the Austin Fire Department lifted the tiny boy from a hole cut in the side of the eight-inch pipe that had held him captive.

Bobby fell into the abandoned pipe about 2:48 p. m., as he was playing. A 12-year-old playmate saw him fall, and spread the alarm.

His rescue came after three steam shovels, compressed air hammers, and volunteer pick and shovel workers tore away the earth from the 20-foot hole.

Bobby dropped down feet first, lodging 14 feet down. Rescuers were successful in working a rope over one of his wrists, but they feared the rope would slip and release the boy or he would be injured if they tried to pull him up. They didn't know whether there was water in the bottom of the pipe.

Bobby continued to slip down the pipe as work progressed and he was standing on the dry bottom when the hole was cut through.

Bobby is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Gow. The father, a printer, stood at the side of the pipe's opening, calming and reassuring his son as the rescue work progressed.

A light shining down the pipe gleamed on the boy's hair, and an oxygen line, thrust down the pipe shortly after Bobby fell, kept pumping oxygen until workers cut through to the lad.

Fr. Feeney himself announced the dismissal and said it was "for disobedience."

Truman Puts OK On Arms Aid Measure

Alliance Members Will Share Billion

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28 (AP)—President Truman put his OK today on a $1,314,010,000 outlay to help build up a global defense against Communism.

He took that action in signing the foreign arms appropriation bill which Congress voted just before it adjourned. The measure contains a billion dollars for European members of the Atlantic alliance, with the remainder earmarked for military aid to Greece, Turkey, Iran, the Philippines, Korea and the China area.

Master Plan Agreement Near

Before the bulk of the Atlantic pact defense allotment can be released, however, Mr. Truman must approve the master strategy plan now being drafted for use against any Communist threat in Europe. Final agreement on that mutual aid program is expected by December 1.

The arms bill also contained an extra $62,000,000 for United States military construction in Alaska and Okinawa—two of this country's strong points guarding approaches to the Pacific Coast.

There is also $30,000,000 for economic aid to Korea; $7,250,000 for assistance to crowded school districts in defense areas; $6,000,000 in cash and $24,000,000 in contract authority for construction of Air Force experimental wind tunnels; $5,500,000 to pay the government of Finland for Finnish ships seized in American ports at the start of the war, and $62,000,000 for military construction in Alaska and Okinawa.

How Funds Are Earmarked

The arms aid funds are earmarked this way:

For North Atlantic pact nations, $500,000,000 in cash and $500,000,000 in contract authority.

For Greece and Turkey, $211,370,000 in cash.

For Iran, Korea and the Philippines, $27,640,000.

For the China area, $75,000,000.

The bulk of the arms aid money cannot be spent until the President accepts unified defense plans being worked out by nations that have signed the North Atlantic pact.

Engel's Trial To Resume Monday

CHICAGO, Oct. 28 (AP)—The first week of the criminal court production of "Married an Engel" ended abruptly after four widows testified Sigmund (Sam) Engel was their husband.

The trial of Engel on a charge of running a confidence game was recessed until Monday after Prosecutor James A. Brown said his last witness, whom he did not identify, had not arrived from Minneapolis.

The wispy-haired, 74-year-old Engel then claimed his "only real wife," Mrs. Pauline Langston Engel, from the spectators' benches and led her away. He is at liberty under bond.

Earlier, the blond-ringed 39-year-old widow from New York had giggled, hidden her face from photographers, then suddenly posed for them while pirouetting on tiptoe.

As court adjourned, Engel kissed her gloved hand, murmuring "come honey, baby darling."

"No, it's Buttercup," she cooed.

Engel told newsmen he will have 25 character witnesses when his defense opens next week. In addition, he says, Arthur will be there. Arthur is the twin brother Sam blames for all his troubles. The prosecution claims Arthur is a myth.

Three More Of Delaware's Escaped Convicts Nabbed

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 28 (AP)—A 20-year-old murderer and two others of the eight heavily-armed convicts who fled from prison Wednesday were taken into custody without a struggle late today.

Danny Norris, Wilmington youth serving a life term for the slaying of City Detective Thomas Conaty, and Victor Bryson, 20, Minquale, Del., were captured at a home in Minquale by Delaware State Police.

A few hours later Edward Ernst, 25, Wilmington, walked into the Poney Hill State Police Station, about two miles north of Wilmington's business district, and surrendered.

Three of the men who escaped the New Castle (Del.) County workhouse still are at large. John Henry

Navigational Error Blamed As French Airliner Hits Peak

SAN MIGUEL, Azores, Oct. 28 (INS)—A New York-bound Air France Constellation crashed against a fog-shrouded Azores peak today and killed all 48 occupants—including French Boxer Marcel Cerdan and 11 Americans—minutes before a scheduled landing.

A navigational error was believed responsible for the disaster. The theory was that the veteran pilot of the four-engined, luxury airliner thought he was near a landing at Santa Maria, when actually he was over the dangerous spoked island of San Miguel, 50 miles off.

Bodies of most of the plane's occupants were thrown clear of the wreckage, which burst into flames and burned for hours before rescuers arrived from nearby Algarvia village and other parts of the island, 2,300 nautical miles from New York.

Wreckage Is Scattered

The plane hit the 3,500-foot-high Algarvia peak on the northeast part of the bleak island and scattered its wreckage between that and another peak.

Recovery of the bodies was made difficult by the terrain and one search party which had set out from Ponta Delgada reported it could not return for some time.

In addition to the all-French crew of 11 and the 11 American passengers, the plane carried 16 French passengers, two Canadians—the editor of a French language newspaper in Canada and his mother—one Cuban, one Syrian, one Iranian, one Israeli, one Iraqi, one Mexican, one Lebanese and one stateless person.

Cerdan, 33-year-old former midweight champion who hoped to regain his title in a December 2 bout with Champion Jake LaMotta in New York, was accompanied by his manager, Jo Longman, and Trainer Paul Jensen. The passengers also included:

French Violinist Killed

Kay Kamen, 57, licensing representative for Walt Disney properties, and his wife Kate, 40, a well-known stylist and lecturer; French Concert Violinist Ginette Neveu who was to start an American tour at New York's Carnegie Hall, and her brother, Jean Paul Neveu, her accompanist; and Louis Boutet de Monvel, prominent French illustrator of children's books.

Kamen booked passage at the plane just before it left Paris so he could accompany his wife who had already reserved her ticket.

Cerdan, who was prevented from leaving Paris Wednesday because of a commitment to appear at a boxing exhibition at Troyes, was reported to have been urged by his wife by telephone from Casablanca to remain in France just before the Constellation left.

Youth Who Hanged Boy Declared Incurable

CHICAGO, Oct. 28 (AP)—Robert Munday, 15, head of a teen-age "hangerman's noose club," was declared incurable today for a hanging for which his younger brother once tried to take the blame.

The victim was Tommy "Whitey" Laux, three years old, who was hanged July 6 and his body stuffed head first into an Army barracks bag. Tommy wanted to be a mascot of the club but was turned down as too young.

The actual charge against Munday was incurability. A previous murder charge had been dropped. He was sentenced to from 18 months to six years in a correctional institution, the Illinois State Training School for Boys at St. Charles, Ill.

Three More Of Delaware's Escaped Convicts Nabbed

Minor, 28, Bear Cleve, Fla., and Jesse W. Palmer, 23, Tusculum, Ala., both negroes, were captured last night by Maryland State Police.

Capture of Norris, described by police as the ringleader, and Bryson came about two hours before Elwood F. Melson, Wilmington attorney, and Rev. Francis A. Burns, prison chaplain, could carry out their plans to surrender the pair.

Melson and John J. Kerrigan, Wilmington Journal-Evening reporter and Father Burns had met Norris and Bryson at a secret rendezvous.

Arrangements were made for them to surrender at 7 p. m. providing the paper would publish their charges about jail conditions in this afternoon's editions. This was done.

Clergyman's Letter May Have Led To Adoption Of Motto On U. S. Coins

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (INS)—Sen. Elbert Thomas (D Utah, discovered in the national archives today a letter believed to have kindled the religious flame which led to adoption of the motto "In God We Trust" on United States coins.

The letter was written November 13, 1861, by a Pennsylvania clergyman, the Rev. M. E. Watkinson, who began a campaign for "recognition of the deity on our money," shortly after the fall of Fort Sumter plunged the nation into civil war.

The minister wrote Salmon P. Chase, President Lincoln's secretary of the treasury:

"... What if our republic were now shattered beyond reconstruction? Would not the antiquaries of succeeding centuries rightfully reason from our past coins that we were a heathen nation?"

Watkinson called for the minting of a coin bearing the words "God, liberty, law."

Treasury records show that Chase was impressed by Watkinson's plea and by the flood of letters on the same subject resulting from a campaign carried on by the Pennsylvania preacher.

Chase, presumably after consultation with Mr. Lincoln, wrote Mint Director James Pollack that "the trust of our people in God should be declared on national coins."

Thus the wheels were started, but the machinery of government then, as now, moved slowly. In 1863 Chase wrote Pollack that either "In God We Trust" or "God Is Our Shield" should be stamped on new coins.

Congress, raving debated the matter, enacted a law on April 22, 1864, authorizing the director of the mint to use the motto "In God We Trust" on new two-cent pieces, and subsequently on other coins.

Abolition of the motto was threatened during Theodore Roosevelt's regime, when "T.R." asserted that the pious sentiment had lost its effectiveness because of the irreverent signs in many saloons, reading:

"In God we trust—all others pay cash."

However, letters demanding that the inscription be retained deluged

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A southern Colonel, who cherishes the prejudices of his grandfather, was horrified when his gawky and strong-willed daughter elected to attend a college in New England. The daughter was well aware of his feelings, so when she actually fell in love with a Massachusetts lad she broke the news with some trepidation. "Daddy," she hazarded, "what would you all say if I married a dandyman one day?" "Say?" roared the colonel. "I'd say we were beginning to pay 'em back at last!"

When Ralph Engelman, the insurance expert, first opened his agency, he spent a full hour convincing the owner of his building that a policy protecting him against loss by fire was a sound investment. An hour of Engelman's high-powered oratory finally broke down the owner's resistance. As he reached for his pen, he said greedily, "Tell me again what I'll get if the building burns down this very night."

Wastepaper To Be Collected Monday

The local wastepaper collection campaign will continue Monday with pickups on West Side Streets. Emmett A. Dougherty, trucker in charge, asked that housewives place bundles on curbs in front of their homes on pickup days. He said collections will be made every Monday in one of the four sections of the city.

He added that it is more convenient to handle wastepaper separately rather than during the regular garbage collection.

Collections will be made in North End, including Bedford, Frederick Streets, and other East Side streets, Monday, November 7.

Windows Of Three Henderson Avenue Establishments Smashed

Three large plate glass windows and a glass door in Henderson Avenue business establishments have been broken in the past 10 days, but nothing was reported stolen from any of the places.

Paint and Supply store which measures 103 feet by 96 feet and is valued at $300, was broken with a rock sometime Sunday night. Shells and shotguns which were on display are thought to have been the motive for smashing the window. However, the vandal is believed to have cut himself in an attempt to remove the articles, as blood was found splattered on the glass.

A spokesman for the store said nothing was taken from the display. Prior to this a smaller display window and a glass in the door of the Cement Products were shattered by shot from air rifles, while the display window in the Gee Cafe was broken. Police are investigating.

Motorists Have Only Themselves To Blame

The current issue of the Baltimore and Ohio Magazine contains an article, "What We Can Do About Crossing Accidents," which goes on to say that "reducing crossing accidents is a public problem in which B & O people can play an important part."

Of all automobile accidents the one type that can always be blamed on the driver of the car is that which occurs at a railroad grade crossing. The train, obviously, was not at fault.

The Baltimore and Ohio, in preparing the magazine article, compiled some interesting figures to show just how many grade crossing accidents during the first half of 1949 were due to sheer carelessness. In one-fourth of the accidents at public crossings of the B & O, the motorists actually ran into trains or locomotives already on the crossing. They hit the train; the train didn't hit them. And in some cases pedestrians or drivers even went around gates and watchmen, or past warning signals that halted all other traffic.

Of further interest is the fact that only 4 per cent of the motorists in grade crossing accidents were "through drivers" from other regions. Of the rest, 39 per cent lived in the communities where the accident occurred and 57 per cent lived nearby. They should have been completely familiar with the crossings. In two-thirds of all accidents the trains were either standing still or going less than 25 miles an hour. Nearly 80 per cent of the accidents occurred during daylight traffic periods when visibility should have been good.

The B & O Magazine takes the view that "Just as it is the responsibility of the railroads to enforce rigidly regulations governing the movement of trains over a crossing, so it is the responsibility of public officials to enforce regulations controlling public movements. The railroads and the public together share the responsibility for the erection of warning signs and devices. Certainly, the public responsibility does not end abruptly at the railroad tracks."

There is only one lesson to be drawn from this study. Almost without exception every driver who is killed or injured in a grade crossing accident would be alive and whole today if he had exercised ordinary care. That these accidents continue is a sad commentary on the thought processes of the operators of motor vehicles and it is a warning to the more sober drivers who use the nation's highways.

The Purring of Denfeld By President Truman

The rumors which flew thick and fast around the Pentagon to the effect that the Administration's axe was about to fall on the neck of Admiral Louis E. Denfeld, Chief of Naval Operations proved true. The cashiering of Denfeld for having voiced his opinions before a congressional committee is a mockery of the whole idea of unification.

Denfeld is not, perhaps, the ablest admiral in the United States Navy, but he is a man of wide knowledge and experience and of absolute honesty. For many months, as a member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, he has been regularly outvoted by the Air Force and Army chiefs. He has believed that naval sea and air power were being weakened, with grave danger to the national security, but, being a dutiful officer, he has said nothing publicly. He spoke out only when a committee of Congress called upon him to testify in a controversy that had literally exploded upon the American public. He testified after receiving assurances from the congressional committee that there would be no retaliations over what he might tell the group. To fire such a man for stating his frank opinion under those conditions is nothing less than "thought control."

The purge by President Truman, on the recommendation of Secretary of the Navy Matthews, might seem a ready means of ending the Navy-Air Force controversy. Actually, it is a slap at Congress in the exercise of its power of inquiry, which is an essential adjunct of its legislative power. It will have a disastrous effect upon the already weakened morals of the Navy. And it will be a profound shock to all fair-minded Americans.

"Unification" secured by reprisals against naval witnesses before Congress is a blow to the national defense.

One-Fifth Of Hoover Plan Accomplished

Somehow the notion seems to have got around that practically all of the government reorganization plan of the Hoover Commission has been made law by Congress. That is wrong, even more wrong than the opposite notion, which you hear voiced occasionally, that nothing at all has been done.

The fact is that 20 per cent of the Hoover program has thus far been enacted into law. Congress has passed the Tydings bill for military unification—which is still vitally important, even though the nature of unification is now a bitter issue between the Navy and the Air Force; the State Department reform bill; the General Services Act, and the Reorganization Bill, under which six of the seven plans submitted by President Truman were approved.

That is to date, a creditable record. But even when it has been carried out, this achievement will represent only one-fifth of the job to be done. In addition, there are some fifteen major bills which must be made law before the program is complete. And those measures will be vigorously fought by certain members of Congress, acting for every group whose extravagant toes are stepped on.

For these reasons, the Citizens Committee for the Hoover Report, under chairman Robert L. Johnson, president of Temple University, is launching an educational drive to win the support of citizens of both parties for government reorganization. Something has been accomplished at the session of Congress now ended until January. But much more needs to be done if the potential saving of three to four billion dollars annually is to be made.

The big push will come at the next session of Congress. The several months' interval between sessions should be a time of intensive public education.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

THERE are numerous remedies for amebic dysentery but none is entirely satisfactory. With apologies to Abraham Lincoln, we might say that the medicines available cure some of the people some of the time, but not all of the people all of the time. The situation might change, however, in lieu of a recent report in which two new arsenic products are described as proving most reliable.

In this study, a group of scientists from San Francisco, Memphis and Costa Rica pooled their efforts in appraisal of two different thiosalts. Both were equally effective in eliminating the parasites. The patients were studied for four or more months after treatment had been terminated, to make certain that the results were not temporary. The new agents were ten times more dependable than one of our better known preparations, and may offer the solution to the problem but more work will be needed before a definite answer can be supplied.

A good remedy will help also in prevention. Nowadays too much reliance is placed upon our present medicines and many victims assume that they are cured after taking a course of treatment; more so, if symptoms have disappeared. Some are not told to report for reexamination a month or two after the completion of treatment; others do not cooperate even though requested by the physician to do so. Little do these persons realize that the organisms may still exist even though they feel normal. Through neglect, they join the ranks of the thousands who keep the disease alive in their communities. The carrier is most dangerous along this line especially if he is a food handler.

Amebic dysentery is transmitted from one individual to another via contaminated food or water. In this respect, it differs from other maladies such as malaria, which requires a mosquito, or tapeworm invasion which is contracted by eating infested beef, pork or fish. The ameba and its inactive form, the cyst, are passed to the outside through the stools. New cases develop by drinking water contaminated by infected sewage or by eating food which has been handled by a carrier who is not too particular about personal hygiene. This is true particularly among cooks, grocers, butchers, bakers, and fruit and vegetable dealers. Flies and other insects also enter the picture in an obvious way.

After the ameba has gained entrance into the body it burrows into the wall of the intestine and sets up housekeeping. In some instances, dysentery follows, associated with cramping and abdominal tenderness. Others encounter diarrhea alternating with periods of constipation. The remainder have no symptoms except for bouts of vague discomfort in the area of the large intestine. They also are the carriers, who are not aware of their importance in the continuation of the disease.

The methods of treatment vary but in many instances, more than one remedy is used. Emetine, for example, often is prescribed when diarrhea and cramps are present but this compound may not destroy all forms of the parasite. To offset this possibility, a second series of medication is given, utilizing carbarsone or diodoquin, not simultaneously but in sequence. At the end of the treatment periods, stool analysis are repeated at periodic intervals to check on the results of therapy.

RENAL IRRITATION

They have no effect on the normal kidneys but may lead to irritation if the organs are inflamed.

SPREADING GROWTH
J. K. writes: Is an infiltrating tumor cancerous?

Possibly, but your question should be answered by the physician who is acquainted with the nature of the tumor.

H. J. writes: Is one's I. Q. determined by heredity and if so, will the child assume the mental power of either parent or a mean between them? Does the I. Q. increase after the age of 15 years?

REPLY
Heredity plays a role but does not necessarily follow the ratio you mention. The procedure is a test for the capacity of learning, which reaches its peak about age 15. This does not mean that we are the smartest at this age; merely that our ability to learn is greatest.

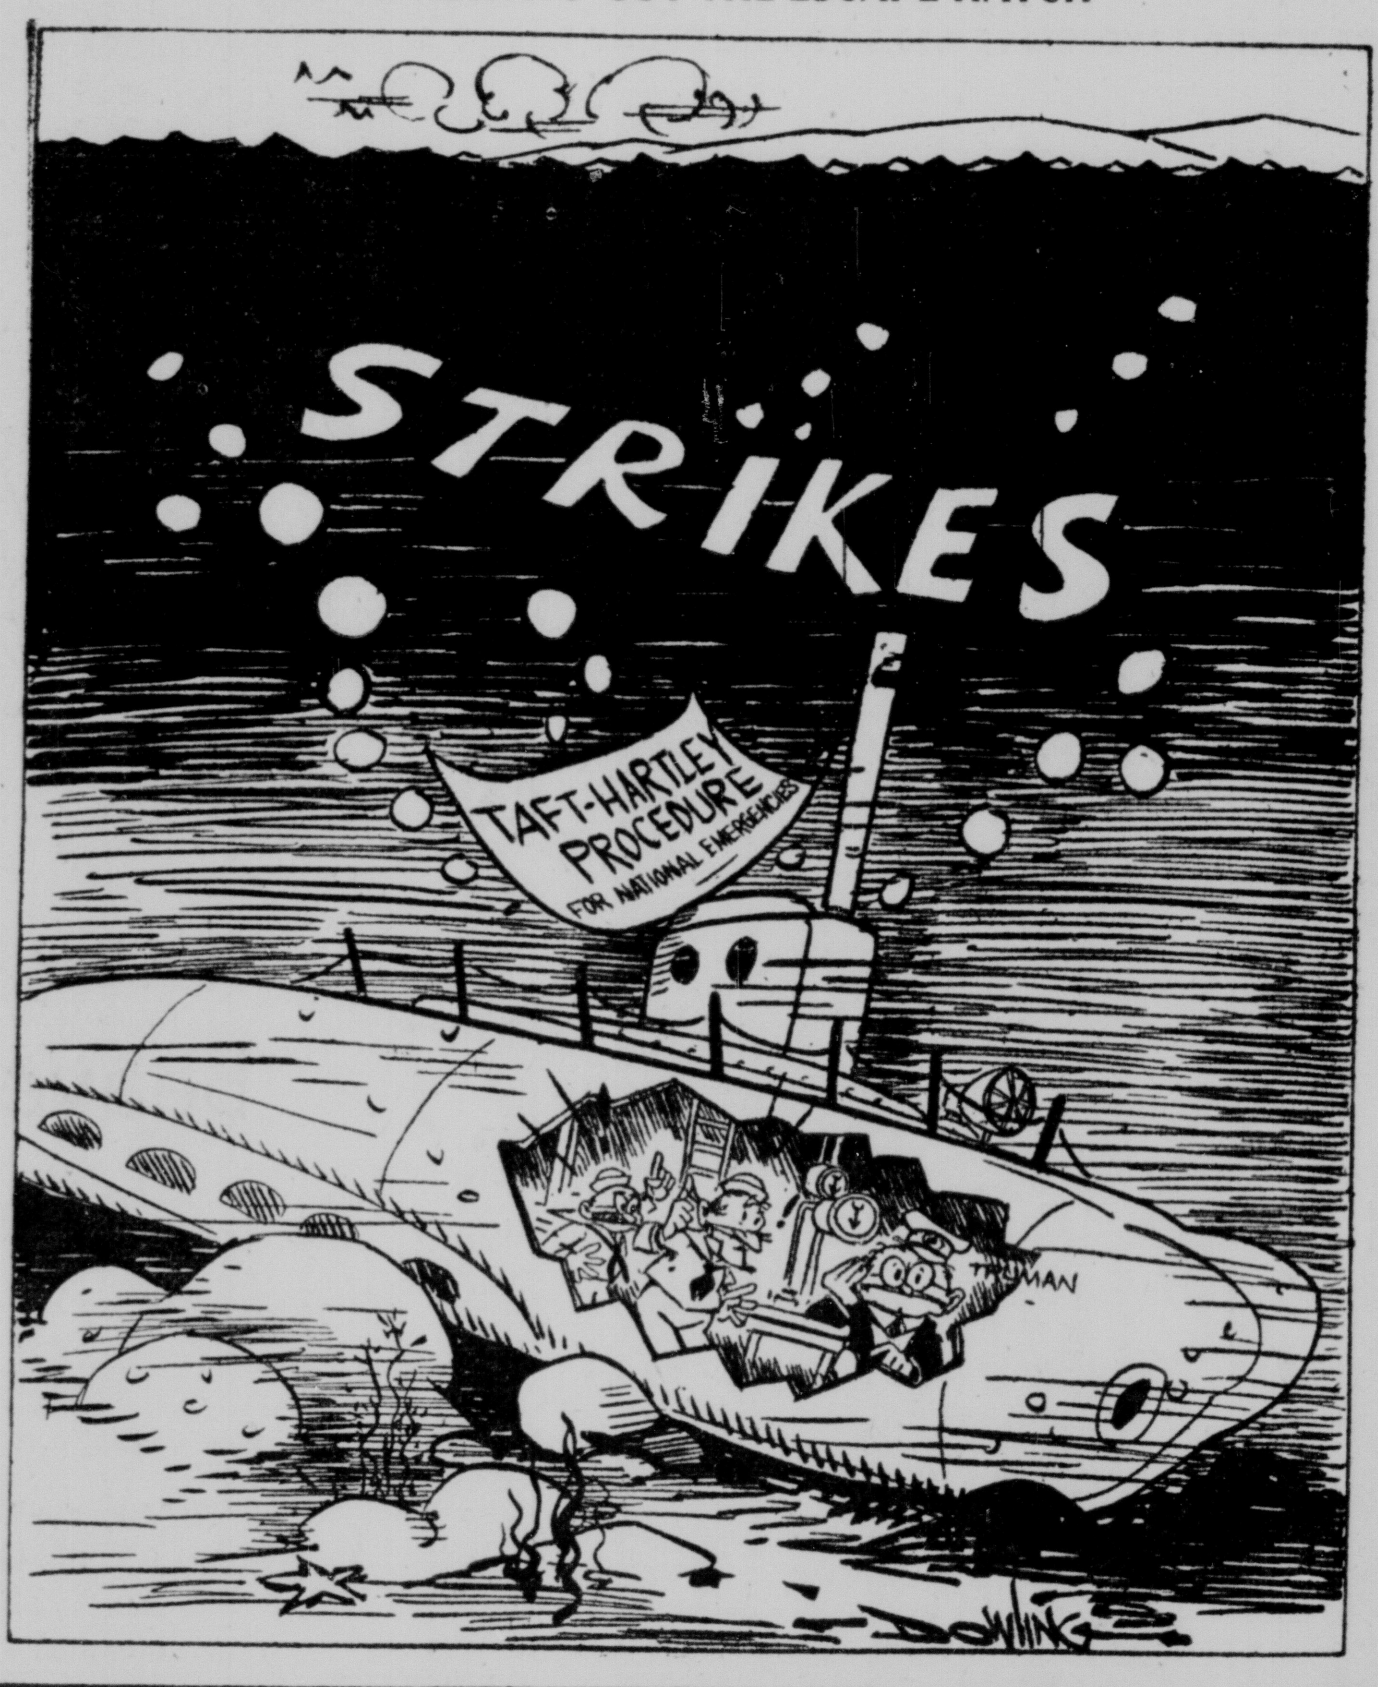

SUGAR TESTS
V. N. writes: If urine and blood tests are normal for sugar, can the person safely assume that diabetes is not present?

REPLY
Yes, for now. Next year, however, the situation may be different, which explains why periodic tests are advisable.

TYPES OF ANEMIA

REPLY
A great many but in general, the condition is divided into three types. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on anemia.

Major Steel Companies Are Divided Over Contributory Or Noncontributory Pensions; President Truman Is Afraid To Invoke Taft-Hartley Act

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28—Here are some of the things that are taking place backstage in the steel-strike discussions.

1. Inside the steel companies: The major companies are divided regarding the contributory or noncontributory pension plan. Inland Steel already has a good pension plan, while Jones and Laughlin, together with Bethlehem, favor a pension plan whereby labor does not contribute; for the following reasons:

Only 10 per cent of the workers continue in their employment until they reach the age of 65. When they leave before that age under a worker-contribution plan, they take their contributions with them, which entails complicated bookkeeping. But when they do not contribute, the amount set aside for them by the company stays in the fund and mounts up. Thus the company, over the years, contributes less and less money.

Flatly opposed to Bethlehem, Jones and Laughlin, and Inland is the giant of the industry, U. S. Steel, which sets the competitive pace. Despite all arguments, U. S. Steel has held out against a company-contributed pension plan—chiefly as a matter of principle. It claims that labor should not get something for nothing, that labor should contribute at least a small part of the pension.

Possibly this view is influenced by the fact that directors of U. S. Steel include heads of other companies—Walter Gifford, of American Tel and Tel; Sewell Avery, of Montgomery Ward and U. S. Gypsum; James Black, of Pacific Gas and Electric—which might be affected by any pension precedent set for the steel industry.

2. Inside the White House—Presidential advisers have discussed with Truman the idea of invoking the Taft-Hartley Act, but he is opposed for this reason:

The United Steel Workers already have suspended a strike for 77 days at his request—practically the equivalent to the 80-day suspension possible under the Taft-Hartley Act. If the President now invoked the T-H Act, it is feared labor might refuse to obey the injunction. And if half a million men refused to obey their government, the nation would face not only a breakdown of democracy, but reverberating ammunition would be handed to Moscow for use in every country in the world.

Furthermore, the President's fact-finding board's recommendations have been accepted by the union, though rejected by management. That is why other White House friends, including Mayor David Lawrence of Pittsburgh, Jack Arvey of Chicago and Chairman Boyle of the Democratic National Committee have been urging Truman to put the bee squarely on the steel companies.

Note 1—Phil Murray, testifying before the President's fact-finding board, invited the steel executives to appear before Congress with him and urge passage of a better old-age pension bill. They refused despite this, if Congress had remained in session and tackled the entire problem of old-age pensions for all old people, not merely those who belong to unions, a pattern might have been worked out for the nation.

Note 2—though U. S. Steel refused to go for noncontributory pensions now, it was the same U. S. Steel Company which gave a non-contributory welfare fund to John L. Lewis and the coal miners in 1947. This precedent given to Lewis sets a goal which Phil Murray and other union leaders now have to equal.

Pentagon Merry-Go-Round

Ironie twist of fate: The Navy is now bitter at Adm. Louis Denfeld even though he went all-out for them before Congress. Other Admirals felt his blast was too late, that he had played footsie with the Army and Air Force in the privacy of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. . . . Navy lobbyists pulled wires to get Adm. William H. Blandy appointed in Denfeld's shoes as chief of naval operations. . . . Adm. Forrest Sherman isn't popular with his co-Admirals. They figure he was the first to drill a hole in the dike that led to unification. What happened was that Sherman was appointed by Secretary Forrestal to sit down with Gen. Lauris Norstad of the Air Force and work out unification. Result was the milk-and-water unification bill of 1947, now considerably strengthened.

Brother Admirals never forgave Sherman for this. . . . Adm. Sherman was top war planner on Admiral Nimitz's staff in the Pacific, is a brilliant strategist, fought for air-planes carriers when other Admirals were still fighting for battleships. . . . While the Navy's friends in Congress are pleading for peace, the Navy is still waging an undercover campaign against usually gentle Gen. Omar Bradley.

They enlisted the powerful voice of Walter Winchell, long-time Naval Reserve Officer, in a campaign against Bradley. Winchell did his best for the Navy during the war, got kicked around for his pains, but is still loyal. . . . Also it was considered no accident that Congressman John McCormack of Boston unloosed an out-of-the-blue blast at General Bradley. The Boston Navy Yard is about to feel the effect of Secretary Johnson's economy move, and some of McCormack's constituents will lose their jobs.

Under The Dome

Michigan's Congressman Lesinski, the Detroit Democrat who staged a sitdown strike against the aid-to-education bill, is already in for reelection trouble. Walter McNary, a Wyandotte, Mich., shoe retailer, will run against him in the primary. McNary stands strong with labor. . . . despite the need for economy and the full coverage given the armed services row by the press associations, the Navy insisted on sending small newspapers voluminous verbatim transcripts of every word the Admirals said about the Air Force. . . . Yet the public relations offices of Army, Navy and Air Forces are supposed to be consolidated. . . . Newsman Burnet Hershey has been studying Truman's health, comes up with the inside story of how he keeps fit—in Look Magazine this week. . . . There is an ironic twist in the New York Senate race between John Foster Dulles and ex-Governor Herbert Lehman. What most people don't know is that Dulles' law firm, Sullivan and Cromwell, have been the lawyers for Lehman Brothers for many years. Usually, the lawyer helps his client. . . . Tito will pay off the United States for helping Yugoslavia win a seat on the Security Council—by a Yugoslav peace treaty with the royalist Greek government.

Deficit Spending Policy Means Disaster To People

By MARK SULLIVAN

IN attacks upon the Truman administration by political opponents, and criticism from non-partisan sources, two phases appear with increasing frequency. So much so that the idea expressed by the phrases seem likely to be the issue in the Congressional campaign next year. Certainly the Republicans seem disposed to make it so. The phrases are "statism" and the "welfare state."

Toward both phrases the Truman administration is gaily defiant. President Truman dismisses statism as a "scare word." As for the welfare state, administration spokesmen make capital of it. Far from meeting it as a charge, they accept it as a credit. In this they rely, of course, on the agreeableness of the word "welfare."

Opponents and critics who use the phrase "welfare state" are at a disadvantage. To attack it they are obliged to do so indirectly. "Welfare" as such can no more be successfully attacked than sin can be defended. The objection to the welfare state is not to the welfare it purports to provide; it is to the regulation of the people that accompanies it, the deprivation of individual freedoms. Opponents seek to make the people see that the welfare state is likely to become the "slave state," the "serf state."

Freedoms Are At Stake

Without doubt there could be a great public debate and crystallizing of opinion on whether the people prefer to hold on to their individual freedoms, or give them up for the promise of welfare held out to

Adm. Denfeld's Removal Poses Major Issue To U. S.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28—Although President Truman has sworn an oath to execute faithfully the laws of the land, he has just violated the spirit as well as the letter of an important Act of Congress.

"No provision of this act shall be so construed as to prevent a Secretary of a military department or a member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff from presenting to the Congress, on his own initiative, after first so informing the Secretary of Defense, any recommendation relating to the Department of Defense that he may deem proper."

Adm. Louis E. Denfeld as chief of naval operations and a member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and responding to an invitation from the House Armed Services Committee, gave his recommendations concerning the defense policy of the nation. He had said the same things to the Secretary of Defense before. But because he spoke to Congress, he now has been removed from office.

This means that in the future no member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff will risk his career in order to bring to Congress the information it needs to legislate on matters of national defense.

Becomes Major Issue

The issue is bigger now than the inter-service controversy that has raged in recent weeks. It is bigger than the question of whether Admiral Denfeld has been justly treated as an individual with a long record of service to his government. It is bigger than the question of whether one service should have this or that role or mission in our defense set-up.

It is really a question of whether a dictatorship by a clique in the executive branch of the government shall ignore any duty the will of the people's representatives—the Congress. Has the executive autocracy now grown so defiant that it can dominate the people's representatives and withhold from them information essential to the legislative process?

Witnesses who are employees of the executive agencies hereafter will fear to tell the truth to Congress lest they be punished. A milestone in the evolution of the American form of government has been reached. European forms of totalitarianism are being copied. For in Russia and Nazi Germany, they wanted only "yes men"—or else there was a "purge."

President Truman has blundered—but with his eyes wide open. He was warned by the chairman of the House Armed Services Committee and by its members, Republican and Democratic, that the cause of unification would not be promoted by reprisals upon witnesses. He chose to disregard such warnings. He acted on the advice of Secretary of Defense Johnson, who, of course, has a powerful influence over Mr. Truman and dominates him in matters of this kind. Mr. Johnson is the type who believes that harmony is achieved by "lopping off heads." It's a queer way to try to achieve harmony in a democracy.

Viewed As New Approach

If General Bradley as well as Admiral Denfeld and also Secretary Johnson and Secretary Matthews had been asked by the president to resign voluntarily so that there would be a whole new set-up in the defense department, the country might have swallowed such a move as perhaps a new approach.

General Bradley offended the entire United States Navy by calling the witnesses "Fancy Dams" and by declaring them unwilling "to hit the line unless they could call the signals." If Admiral Denfeld's offense was plain-speaking, how can General Bradley preside over the Joint Chiefs of Staff with such a blemish of partisanship and tactlessness on his otherwise unsullied record of fairness? Will the morale of the Navy be improved by punishing their chief—Admiral Denfeld?

Certainly Mr. Truman has given Congress something to worry about. Maybe he has paved the way for a major controversy in the January session. Perhaps a complete revision of the so-called unification law will be the result. If so, Admiral Denfeld will become in history a martyr to the cause of free government.

These Days By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Socialist Era

THE aftermath of the war has various types of socialism. But these doctrinal quarrels are merely schismatic. It matters little, in the long run, whether socialism is accomplished by the totalitarian methods of the Bolsheviks as practiced by Stalin or by the go-slow Fabian methods of Cripps as employed in England. The Marxism of Tito is of the same brand as the Marxism of Stalin; their differences are in the realm of human ambition. It is interesting that in the United States, opportunists are already leaping on the Tito bandwagon, as they piled on the Stalin bandwagon when to be a fellow-traveller was advantageous and profitable.

In the United States, the principle vehicle for go-slow socialism is the A.D.A., a new, but effective organization, which is already represented in Congress, in the Administration and in various state governments. The following are the officers of the A.D.A.

Hubert H. Humphrey, acting national chairman; Joseph H. Ruah, chairman, executive committee; Paul A. Porter, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., George Edwards, Hugo Ernst, Emil Rieve, vice chairman; Louis H. Harris, treasurer; David Ginsburg, secretary, national board; Ethel S. Epstein, national finance chairman; James Loeb, Jr., national executive secretary.

National Board: William Batt, Jr., Chester Bowles, Harvey W. Brown, L. S. Buckmaster, James B. Carey, David Dubinsky, Arthur Elder, Frank P. Graham, Lester B. Grang-polices generally, especially its fiscal policies—give confidence that the purchasing power of the dollar will remain stable over the years?

Present Course Deplored

To that question many thoughtful persons answer that we cannot have such confidence if the Administration continues the present course of spending more than it takes in, a deficit last year, a larger one this year, a still larger one certain next year, future ones made almost certain by new promises and obligations to spend. If this course is not reversed, the consequence must be as Senator Byrd starkly puts it: "the government credit wrecked."

Here is a real issue for the campaign next year. It covers the welfare state but is broader, for the ultimate consequence of continued deficit spending would mean disaster not only to beneficiaries of government security programs but to everybody. To make this issue clear to the public, it is not enough merely to cry "welfare state" and "statism." The terms must be explained. Men of careful thought must labor earnestly to explain an intricate and abstruse thing—just why it is that continued deficit spending, continued increase of the government debt, results in reducing the purchasing power of the dollar. The people must be shown that if deficit spending goes on indefinitely, the dollar would become, in purchasing power, a half dollar, a quarter, a dime. They must be shown that, without solvency of the government, there can be no welfare state and no welfare at all, that there cannot be security for

The A.D.A. does not run as a political party. That would, of course, expose them. They invade both the major parties, seeking strength and converts where they can. They are now violently anti-Communist, but many of their adherents were among the most active fellow-travellers when the Communists were part of the New Deal apparatus. Lacking political integrity and responsibility, they float along on other men's political activities, gaining strength where they can and deserting a cause and a group when the advantages of association are no longer available.

Many of the A.D.A. leaders have built reputations for themselves as liberals, often utilizing the Communist apparatus to achieve a success. Now that the Communists have a bad name and a bad press, these men and women have turned on them. Their defense is that what is true today was not true in 1938 or in 1934.

That, of course, is nonsense. Karl Marx began to write in 1842, the Communist Manifesto was published in 1848; "Das Kapital" in 1867. The Bolshevik group was organized in 1903; the Russian revolution occurred in 1917; the Third International was organized in 1919. The line of socialist conquest has been clear, decisive, and unmistakable. Only cowards use alibis.

The A.D.A. are a greater menace to the United States than the Communists, for they masquerade as gentle folks who wish to do good, while, in reality, they are socialists. Karl Marx abhorred the type. He called them "bourgeois socialists." He described them thus:

"The socialistic bourgeois want all the advantages of modern social conditions without the struggles and dangers necessarily resulting therefrom. They desire the existing state of society minus its revolutionary and disintegrating elements. They wish for a bourgeoisie without a proletariat. The bourgeoisie naturally conceives the world in which it is supreme to be the best; and bourgeois socialism develops this comfortable conception into various more or less complete systems. In requiring the proletariat to carry out such a system, and thereby to march straightway into the social New Jerusalem, it but requires in reality that the proletariat should remain within the bounds of existing society, but should cast away all its hateful ideas concerning the bourgeoisie."

This is the A.D.A. It wants socialism without revolution—a pleasant easy-going socialism, something nice, like an intellectual jam session on Park Avenue.

WHY does the costly steel strike continue?

The costly and unnecessary steel strike is now in its fourth week. The country at large is beginning to feel its disastrous effects. Employees and employers have already suffered serious financial losses. The situation will grow worse if the strike continues.

This strike was ordered by Philip Murray, President of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO). He and his Union must accept full responsibility for the strike and its damaging consequences. United States Steel did not want a strike and tried hard to prevent it.

More than three weeks have elapsed, and no proposal of any kind has been made to us by the Union for a settlement of the strike. On the contrary, the Union stubbornly adheres to its original ultimatum that we must agree in advance to pay the entire cost of insurance and pensions for our employees. That is the only issue. Unconditional surrender by us to this ultimatum is the price which the Union demands to call off its strike.

In an endeavor to negotiate with the Union a sound and fair program of insurance and pensions, United States Steel offered to pay up to 10c an hour per employee (more than $50,000,000 a year) toward the cost of insurance and pension benefits, the employees to make some additional contribution. This 10c was the amount which the Presidential Fact-Finding Board recommended we should pay. Our offer was flatly refused by the Union. It insists that we must pay the entire cost of such insurance and pensions.

The insurance program proposed by United States Steel would provide greater welfare benefits for our employees at less cost than our average employee is today paying under existing insurance and welfare plans. Therefore, our proposed insurance program will not reduce his take-home pay.

We have had long experience with an employee-pay-nothing (non-contributory) pension plan. We found it necessary to adopt a contributory pension plan ten years ago. More than 60,000 of our employees today participate in this contributory plan.

Contributory Social Security Has These Advantages:

1. Larger insurance benefits and pensions are provided

When the employee and the company both contribute, the larger contributions permit better social security benefits.

2. A contributory plan is safer

Company pay-all plans are uncertain. There may some day be no money or no company. Employees suffer, if the plan fails.

Furthermore, the contributing employee has a direct interest in the success of the plan. He will then strive to keep the plan financially sound and within proper bounds.

3. Contributory plans provide savings for employees

The employees contributions go into a fund, along with the company's contribution. In effect, it is a saving account for the employee's own welfare. Under the usual contributory pension plan, if the employee dies before retirement, his family gets his pension contributions with interest. If he quits, he gets them back, with interest.

Under a contributory plan, an employee always has something saved up for his protection. Putting aside savings is not a wage reduction.

4. Today's work provides tomorrow's welfare benefits

Under a contributory plan both the company and the employee lay aside something for the employee's future welfare and security. It is not the American way to ask for hand-outs or something for nothing.

5. A contributory plan is a voluntary plan

A contributory plan ordinarily gives the employee a choice. He can take it, or leave it. The inducement to join the contributory plan is two-fold. The employee is paying some of his own money for his protection and for his old age, and, if he is willing to do that, the company will more than match all he puts up in order to give him greater benefits.

Many People Know . . .

- That Federal Social Security is contributory.
- That the U. S. Government and most States have contributory pension plans.
- That many cities (including New York City) have contributory pension plans.
- That railroad pensions are contributory.
- That the majority of plans in American business are contributory.

But Few People Realize . . .

- That many of our employees tell us in letters that they want to contribute to a sound insurance and pension plan.

- That Philip Murray approved contributions by employees when he advised the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives in Washington on April 12, 1949:

"As to financing, our members have been willing to pay their due share of the cost of social insurance."

- That the House Ways and Means Committee in August 1949 reported to Congress:

"The time has come to reaffirm the basic principle that a contributory system of social insurance in which workers share directly in meeting the cost of the protection afforded is the most satisfactory way of preventing dependency."

- That our employees have already lost more pay in this strike than their contributions toward a contributory insurance and pension fund would total in a whole year.

- That this is not a popular strike with many of our employees.

- That the real explanation of the steel strike is rivalry between labor union leaders — a desire by one labor union monopolist to outdo another.

Union politics are not a just or sufficient cause for the present steel strike — costly to the public, the employees, and the steel companies alike.

OUR POSITION: United States Steel favors a proper and financially sound program of insurance and pensions for its employees. We welcome an opportunity to negotiate a program of this character with the Union. As evidence of our sincerity, we have made an offer to the Union to pay more than $50,000,000 a year as our share of the cost.

ALERT!

Every muscle tense... every sense attuned to their surroundings... they're ready! A scent, a sound, a glimpse of the unexpected and they will streak silently into the forest. They're alert, but their alertness indicates a readiness to run away.

Rightly man scorns that kind of alertness. For human achievement is born of a different alertness. When men are awake to their opportunities, alive to their responsibilities, brave to their challenges... then progress is realized, goals are reached.

Our religion helped to establish this human standard of alertness, and our churches constantly inspire men to achieve it. For when the mind is attuned to life's environment, and the soul is attuned to God, then a man has the wherewithal to go forward to greater goals.

True alertness begins when we discover the riches the Church can add to our lives!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Van Horn Charges Lewis, Bridges "Dissipated" Fund

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28 (AP)—The United Mine Workers multi-million dollar welfare fund was "dissipated" by John L. Lewis and Sen. Bridges (R-NH), their fellow trust officer, Ezra Van Horn, told a federal court today.

Van Horn made that charge in asking the court to free him from any liability in a suit involving an accounting of the funds.

The suit was filed against all three trustees by George Livengood, a Pennsylvania miner after the pension payments were halted September 16. Lewis and Bridges ordered the halt over the dissenting vote of Van Horn who on the same day turned in his resignation to the mine owners he represents on the board.

Both Lewis, the UMW representative, the "neutral" trustee, previously had filed answers to the suit. They made general denials of Livengood's charges that Lewis had suspended the welfare payments as a "political weapon" in an improper attempt to use the fund as a lever for extracting concessions from the operators in negotiations for a new contract.

Van Horn told the court he "continuously voted against the improper expenditures" from the $100,000,000 a year welfare fund which is financed by the mine owners through a 20-cent royalty fee levied on each ton of coal.

At the time the payments were suspended, Bridges reported that the fund had dwindled from $30,000,000 on July 1 to $14,000,000 on September 1.

Four Gridders Held For Theft

ROCKFORD, Ill., Oct. 28 (AP)—Four Joliet High School football players were arrested today on larceny charges while en route to Joliet for a game tonight.

Detectives boarded the team's chartered bus after it had made an hour's stop in Rockford.

Acting Police Capt. Charles McDonnell said proprietors of the M. and W. clothing store and the Chicago outlet store in Rockford complained that the youths had carried off clothing from their stores.

Detectives Willard Lundberg and Donovan Saunders chased one of the two Joliet chartered buses almost all the way to Freeport but discovered it was carrying the reserve team.

They drove back to the outskirts of Rockford and boarded the bus carrying the varsity team.

The detectives said that all the boys on board denied the thefts until the officers said they would take the whole busload back for questioning.

Then, Lundberg and Saunders said, four boys stepped up and said they were responsible for the thefts. The detectives said they found one topcoat, two pairs of slacks and 27 pairs of socks in the bus.

Sale Of Bus Lines Halted By Injunction

The owner of Emery's Motor Coach Lines was granted a temporary injunction yesterday morning to stop a trustees' sale scheduled to take place 15 minutes later.

W. S. McBride, clerk of Berkeley County Circuit Court, reported the order issued by Judge Decatur H. Rogers was received by him at 9:45 a. m.

A trustees' sale of 30 buses and an automobile of the three-state and District of Columbia carrier had been scheduled at 10 a. m.

The sale was advertised by L. I. Rice and Edward W. Marsh, trustees, who stated that the firm had been in default of payment on a lien held by the Mellon National Bank and Trust Company of Pittsburgh.

The auction also included franchise permits, certificates of convenience and good will owned by Robert L. Emery, Jr., who operates the bus company.

In the bill of complaint filed by Emery he alleges that on January

10, 1947, he borrowed $102,000 from the Pittsburgh bank.

Later, the bill states, the most indebtedness totaled $190,000. On October 8, 1948, he had reduced the debt to $127,000, the plaintiff stated.

Today, his debt totals $65,300, Emery declared, and he added that he is prepared to pay his installment of $4,000 which is due October 30.

Under West Virginia law, the suit stated, the bill would therefore become legally due the following day.

In other facts pointed out by Emery, he showed that his buses have a total depreciation value of $135,000 and that they carry 4,000 passengers daily.

The bill explained that besides other indebtedness of $35,000, he owes the federal government $14,000 in taxes.

Judge Rogers announced that he will hear arguments on a motion by the trustees to dissolve the injunction at 11 a. m. today.

In the event the injunction is dissolved, the public auction will be held Monday at 10 a. m. in front of the Berkeley County Court House, court attaches said.

Emery said the projected sale caused no interruption in service.

The first shirt factory in the United States was owned by David and Isaac N. Jordan in New York City. It was started in 1832.

County To Act On Housing If Towns Approve

The Board of Allegany County Commissioners yesterday decided to act on establishment of a Housing Authority for the county in the next 30 days, if incorporated county towns are interested.

Following a lengthy discussion attended by two Public Housing Administration officials and representatives of labor and veterans groups, Commissioner William H. Lemmert moved to ask the views of various county towns before acting.

John Gilbert Zieler, attorney of the Federal Public Housing Administration, and John Shaw, field representative of the PHA in Philadelphia, stressed the point that the county and individual towns will not be taxed or have to pay out anything if the program is adopted.

The only contribution from the localities and county will be the granting of tax exemptions on the projects.

In lieu of taxes the county will receive ten per cent of shelter rental from the projects.

Zieler emphasized that if the county wishes to get into the first year's program under the federal program action should be taken as soon as possible.

Commissioner Lemmert said that he doesn't believe there will be any disagreement among board members as far as the tax exemption is concerned.

Lemmert told the two officials that the county has underway a huge school-building program, a million dollar flood control contribution to the Cumberland project, and that sanitary needs are acute. He said he wishes to see that these programs are completed.

If the housing program would not interfere with any of these plans Lemmert said he was willing to go along with the project.

Zieler said that housing projects made after extensive surveys would go a long way towards helping clear up the sanitary situations.

He also said that adjacent property owners to housing projects would improve their property and thus the taxable basis would be increased in these sections.

F. Patrick Allender, a member of the Cumberland Public Housing Authority, and business agent of the AFL Carpenters' Union, said members of the Cumberland group would give as much assistance to the county as possible.

Lindley Dye, a representative of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, said his organization is vitally interested in obtaining low-cost housing units for low-income groups in the county. He said he has invested such units in Frederick county and was very much impressed with the program.

Allender pointed out that federal funds appropriated for public housing are paid by every taxpayer and if advantage is not taken by Allegany county of the opportunity to obtain projects the money will be spent elsewhere and "we will still have to pay our share of the cost in taxes."

Health Board Cites County Sanitary Needs

The State Board of Health is greatly concerned over unsanitary conditions in Allegany County, George L. Hall, chief engineer of the agency, told the Board of Allegany County Commissioners yesterday.

In a letter to the board, Hall suggested that prompt steps be taken to eliminate the conditions.

Commissioners William H. Lemmert and James Holmes instructed James G. Stevenson, board clerk, to write Hall to come to this county Tuesday, November 8, to discuss what can be done.

The letter from Hall stated that the Legislature passed an Act at the 1949 session authorizing the establishment of certain sanitary districts in Allegany county, for the purpose of providing adequate water supplies and sewerage facilities for those communities where deficiencies existed.

There have been no steps taken to furnish the residents with sanitary facilities to promote better living conditions in thickly built-up areas, Hall said. There have been two districts established for supplying water, one at Cresaptown and the other at LaVale, but neither of these has gone into the sewerage problem.

Hall said there are 15 public water supply systems in Allegany county, exclusive of Cumberland, and the bacterial quality of the water from only three of them meets the accepted standards as established by the U. S. Public Health Service.

Many of these water systems are inadequate and expose persons using such sources to infections of a water-borne nature, Hall pointed out.

There are no sewage treatment plants in the county, although several communities have a system of sewers, Hall stated. The raw sewage is discharged directly into streams creating a dangerous public health hazard, he added.

In thickly-built up areas individual owners have their own sewage systems and in many instances sewage is discharged directly into streams. This creates a menace to health not only to the homes involved but to adjacent residents.

The county is authorized to set up a sanitary district to handle problems of sewage and water supply. No action was taken to name a sanitary district board, although the commissioners could have named one last June.

Commissioner Lemmert said that the matter is one of deep concern and a sanitary district board should be named as soon as possible. Commissioner Holmes concurred in this view, Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson is out of town.

Capot Beats Coaltown By 12 Lengths

Cops $15,000 Purse In Pimlico Special, 14,262 Witness Race

By JOHN CHANDLER
BALTIMORE, Oct. 28. (P)—Eight legs churned around Old Hilltop today, and the four belonging to Capot gave the flashy three-year-old star a runaway victory over Coaltown in the 13th Pimlico Special.

Capot, brown son of Menow from the Green Tree Stable, went out in front slightly at the start of this two-horse race between a pair of the top horses of the year.

He gradually drew away. At the end he sailed under the wire an astounding 12-length winner.

It was a bitter blow to the famed Calumet Farm, which had high hopes of seeing "horse of the year" honors pinned on Coaltown, the stable's four-year-old handicapper ace.

Atkinson Rides Winner
There were no records broken this dark, hazy afternoon, but Jockey Ted Atkinson didn't have to press for more speed once Capot got into high gear in the mile and three-sixteenths run. Capot was eased in the final sixteenth of a mile.

Toronto Teddy kept his whip waving alongside the Col's head to hold his mind to the task.

Capot, making his first Pimlico start since he won the Preakness here in May, romped the route in 1:56 4-5. That was four-fifths of a second slower than his Preakness time, which is the track record.

The crowd of 14,262, had established Coaltown the favorite at 30 cents on the dollar. The fans fully expected the Calumet Cannonball, who had won 12 of 14 races this year, to do it again.

But Jockey Steve Brooks couldn't get the old running fire out of the bay son of Bull Lea this afternoon.

Capot Returns $5
Ignored by most of the experts, Capot was only 3 to 2 on the board, but it was a nice $5 for $2 which flashed out when the red "official sign" lit up.

There was win betting only, under the Pimlico Special conditions in which the winner takes all of the money—in this case $15,000.

Capot had beaten Coaltown early this month in the Synovs Mile at Belmont Park. Few expected he could make it two in a row. No horse excepting Coaltown's stablemate, the great Citation, ever had hung two defeats on him. Coaltown equaled two world records in Florida early in the year, and set an early record at Washington Park last August.

Wofford Chalks Up 7th Straight Win
ORANGEBURG, S. C., Oct. 28. (P)—The Wofford Terriers, undefeated since 1947, won their seventh straight victory of the season here today by outclassing The Citadel of the Southern Conference, 21-7, before an Orangeburg Fair crowd of about 10,000.

Wofford scored in the first, third and fourth quarters. The Citadel came back briefly after the second Wofford touchdown for its lone score.

Sammy Sewell was the big offensive gun for Wofford. His running, passing and punting was superb and he scored two of his team's touchdowns.

Boxing World Is Stunned By Cerdan Death

Boxer's Life Snuffed Out By Plane Crash

By JOHN BARRINGTON
International News Service Sports Writer
NEW YORK, Oct. 28. (INS)—The tough, blasé world of boxing was stunned and saddened today by the death of former middleweight champion Marcel Cerdan in the crash of a trans-Atlantic plane in the Azores.

Jake LaMotta—who won the middleweight title from Cerdan last summer and was to defend it against him Dec. 2—burst into tears when he heard the news in New York.

Cerdan, the idol of French sports fans, was en route to New York to begin training for that bout. The fight originally was scheduled for last September but was postponed when LaMotta injured a shoulder in training.

Manager Among Victims
Cerdan's manager, Jo Longman, a popular figure in fighting circles, also was among the 47 crash victims.

James D. Norris, head of the International Boxing Club, said: "I am profoundly grieved by this news. Marcel Cerdan was one of the finest men in sports—a real gentleman and a great competitor."

Former heavyweight champion Joe Louis, now director of boxing for the I. B. C., said: "I am very sorry to hear this news. Cerdan was a great fighter, and a gentleman both in and out of the ring."

There was no other topic of conversation where New York boxing people convened—at Madison Square Garden, famed old Stillman's gym and along "Jacobs Beach."

Burston Grief Stricken
Among the most grief-stricken was Lew Burston, European representative for the I. B. C., and the man who brought Cerdan to America from his native Casablanca, Burston said:

"He was the sweetest kid I've ever met, and the easiest fighter I ever knew to get along with. I talked to him by phone to Paris Tuesday night."

French sportsmen called Marcel the greatest fighter their country has known since Georges Carpentier.

Only last night the 33-year-old, curly-haired boxer told a cheering crowd before boarding the plane in which he met his death:

"I want that title that I so stupidly lost. I want it with all my strength. To regain it, I have never undertaken such efforts, such rigorous preparations."

Cerdan first gained the notice of American troops while serving with the French navy. He won the Allied championship of North Africa, kicking any fighter his weight who dared to challenge him.

Marcel never had an amateur bout. He was tossed directly into professional competition and in 1938 won the French middleweight championship. Until he lost to LaMotta last summer, Marcel's record of more than 100 fights included only two losses.

Won Title From Zale
He came to the United States at the age of 30 preceded by colorful stories of his punching ability. Eventually he won the title from Tony Zale in a bruising fight at Jersey City on Sept. 21, 1948.

Cerdan lost the title to LaMotta, rugged native of New York's Bronx, in a match in which an early shoulder injury handicapped him severely.

High overall individual champions for the season were Leo Leasure, first, Frank Simpson, second, and Jack Fulk, third. Leasure averaged 396 out of a possible 400 for the twelve matches. Simpson scored 395.5.

Awards in the classifications were made as follows: MASTER—Arthur Hoffa, Ralph Cramer; EX-PERT—Roy Ringler, Paul Nycum, George Weatherholtz; SHARP-SHOOTER—Harry Ranker, William Elgin, Howard Brode; MARKSMAN—Thomas Harris, Hayes Robertson, Merle Shumaker.

First and second places in the ladies' championship went to Mrs. Virginia Hoffa and Mrs. Ruth Morgan.

Guest speakers Gray McCord, of Winchester Arms Company, and Norman Powell, of Remington Arms, gave brief talks concerning the outlook on the hunting and competitive shooting scenes. Mr. Powell announced the appointment of Harry Morgan, league executive officer, Frostburg gunsmith, and well known local shooter, as an authorized gunsmith qualified to repair Remington firearms.

Following the speakers, entertainment was provided in a Halloween atmosphere by the Bartori Girls Scouts, under the direction of Mrs. Inez Andrews and assisted by Mrs. Virginia Hoffa.

Villanova Beats B. C.
BOSTON, Oct. 28. (P)—The Villanova Wildcats, paced by Captain Ralph Pasquariello, their 230-pound smashing fullback, overwhelmed Boston College, 28-14, tonight before a 25,789 crowd at Braves Field. That decisive triumph broke the mainliners' three-game Boston losing streak.

Lightweight Joe Buxton outpointed Johnny McMurdie over four rounds.

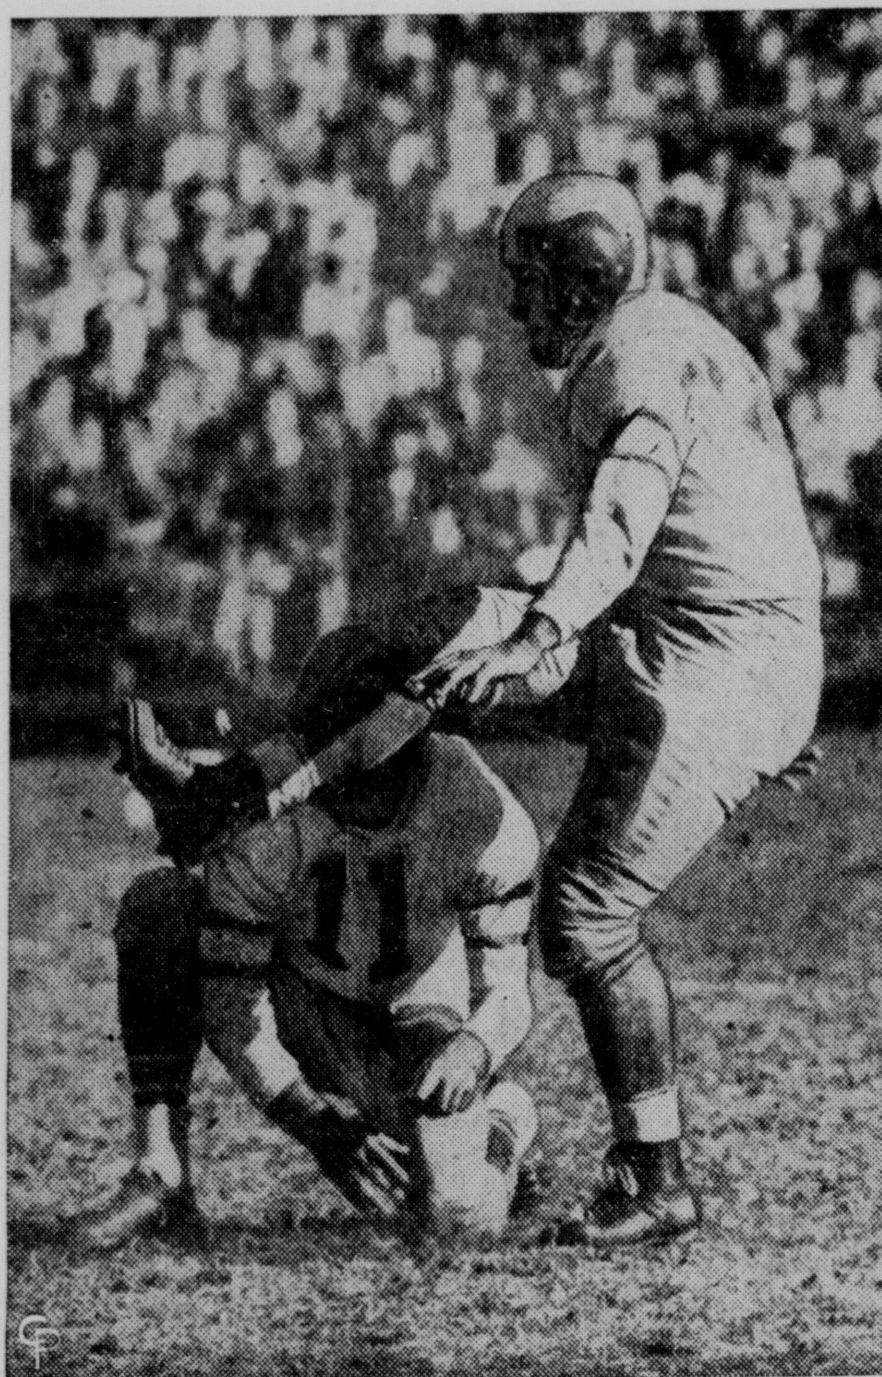

Welterweight Allan Buxton stopped Bobby Baines in three rounds. Middleweight Alex Buxton knocked out Des Jones in four rounds.

Bill Corum Named To Succeed Winn As Racing Prexy

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 28. (P)—Bill Corum, 54-year-old New York sports writer, fell their today to Col. Matt Winn's Kentucky Derby shoes.

The board of directors named Corum as president of the American Turf Association and Churchill Downs, a subsidiary. The internationally famous Derby is a feature of the spring racing season at the Downs.

The salary and other details of Corum's duties here will be ironed out later between him and a five-man committee of board members. A spokesman for the Downs said it has not been determined yet what duties if any Corum will retain as a sports columnist for the New York Journal-American and as a radio sportscaster.

However, one source said the new Downs president will not have supreme authority as Colonel Winn did in operating the Downs and the Derby. Winn's salary was reported to be $50,000 a year.

His death Oct. 6, came a few months after he had seen the 75th running of the Derby and ended an association with the Downs which started in 1902.

Corum was unavailable immediately for comment but his associates in New York said he plans to take a leave of absence from his sports writing job next spring.

Keyser Eleven Takes Measure Of Moorefield

Emery Tallies Twice In 19 To 7 Triumph

KEYSER, W. Va., Oct. 28.—Keyser High School's Golden Tornado stayed in the running for the Potomac Valley Conference championship today by scoring touchdowns in the second, third and fourth periods to defeat Moorefield High School by the score of 19-7. It was Keyser's second conference triumph.

Paul Emery tallied two of the KHS touchdowns while the other was made by Dwight Hovis. Rice's pass to Grubbs netted the extra point.

Moorefield was blanked until the final quarter when Myers intercepted a pass thrown by Leary and galloped 39 yards for a touchdown. Barr added the point on a quarterback sneak.

A 58-yard punt return by Hovis to the Moorefield 27 set the stage for Keyser's initial score. Four plays carried to the 2-yard mark from where Paul Emery went over for the six-point.

Bob Calhoun's 9-yard pass to Hovis produced the second KHS touchdown in the third stanza and Grubbs snared Rice's aerial for the extra point.

After Moorefield registered early in the final period, Keyser chalked up its final TD when Emery smashed over from the 4 on an off tackle play.

Keyser outscored Moorefield in first downs, 13-7 and rolled up a total of 262 net yards, 110 coming on six completed passes in 15 tries. The Yellow Jackets from Hardy County were held to 72 net yards, 38 rushing and 34 in the air.

Calhoun, Hovis and Emery starred for Keyser while Fullback Hott was outstanding for Moorefield.

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 28.—Allegheny High School's undefeated and untied football team proved better mud horses than the Bulldogs of Martinsburg High School tonight and kept their record unblemished by trimming Coach John Coburn's gridders to the tune of 19-0 in a contest played during a heavy downpour.

The triumph extended the Cumberlandlanders' winning streak for the current season to seven games. The Campers, undefeated since the final game of the 1947 season have won 16 and tied one in their last 17 starts.

Martinsburg, defeated 32-6 by Fort Hill, Allegheny's arch rival earlier in the season, never had much of a chance against Coach Robert Pence's eleven in tonight's contest. The Bulldogs were limited to a total of 32 net yards, 22 on the ground and 10 via the air, and the closest the home team came to scoring was in the second period when it advanced to the Campers' 26-yard line.

Allegheny's touchdowns were chalked up by Blaine Morton, Tom Oglebay and Ronnie Sisk and Donnie Lease kicked the winners' only extra point.

The visiting eleven scored early in the first period on a 67-yard touchdown run by Morton through left tackle. The drive started when Oglebay returned Kibler's punt to the AHS 26. Lease hit tackle for seven yards on the first play and then Morton reeled off his long run exactly 1:03 after the game got under way. Lease converted the kick for the point.

In the second period a pass, Oglebay to Bob Lookbaugh was good for 38 yards and carried to the Martinsburg 20. On the initial play Oglebay picked up five yards through center, then Sisk went off tackle for four and Lease added six more for a first down on the 5. From there Oglebay toted the ball over for the score to give AHS a 13-0 advantage at intermission.

Gordon Swan recovered a Martinsburg fumble on the Bulldogs' 5 in the fourth quarter and after three running plays Lease's fumble was recovered by Hawn, of Martinsburg, on his own 16. On the opening play Morton intercepted a pass on the Martinsburg 18 and AHS was headed goalward once more. Oglebay, Morton and Lease reeled off 17 yards in four plays to place the ball on the Bulldogs' 1-yard mark. On the succeeding play Sisk fumbled in carrying the ball over the final stripe. Grayson recovered and also fumbled and finally Sisk snatched the leather to mark up the final touchdown. Lease's pass for the point was no good.

Allegheny accumulated 181 yards rushing and completed two passes in as many tries for 41 yards.

Grayson, Swan Stand Out
Grayson and Swan played bang-up ball on the line for the Campers and were aided by the sparkling play of Roy Perrell and Jack Bopp. Morton, Oglebay, Lease and Sisk were outstanding in the backfield. Berry, Hawn and Kibler on the line and Potts and Miller, backs, were Martinsburg's best bets.

It was the 24th meeting of the schools on the gridiron. Allegheny has won 15, Martinsburg 8 and one game ended in a tie. Lineups:

Miss Schell Is Bride Of R. F. Kessel

MOOREFIELD, W. Va. — Miss Mary Luella Schell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carson Schell, became the bride of Robert Forrest Kessel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Kessel, at the Presbyterian manse Saturday.

Rev. Charles Kernan performed the double-ring ceremony before a mantle decorated with chrysanthemums and white candles.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white suit with matching accessories and a shoulder-length veil. She carried a white prayerbook with an orchid.

Miss Neva Schell, Arlington, Va., was her sister's maid of honor. She wore a brown lace dress with matching accessories and carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

Rudy Strand, Alexandria, Va., was best man.

Mrs. Kessel was graduated from Moorefield High School in 1948 and is employed at Allen's Drug Store. Mr. Kessel attended Moorefield High School and served in the Navy during World War II. He is now associated with his father in business.

Mr. and Mrs. Schell entertained with a reception at their home following the wedding party and close friends of the bride and groom. A three-tiered wedding cake centered the table and a color scheme of white and pink was carried out in the decorations.

Mr. and Mrs. Kessel left for a week's wedding trip through eastern states immediately following the reception. For her going-away costume Mrs. Kessel wore a gray dress with matching accessories and an orchid corsage. They will reside in Moorefield.

To Attend Service

WESTERNPORT — Members of Philos Lodge No. 91, I.O.O.F., and Miriam Rebekah Lodge No. 16 and Barton Lodge No. 94 will attend in a body the evening service Sunday at Piedmont Trinity Methodist Church. Rev. O. Clarence Mitchell, pastor, will deliver the sermon.

Since the picture had to do with the story of Jesus bringing about peace during a revolt against the tyranny of the Roman Empire, and at the time, this nation was at war, it was not released to the public until the war came to a close.

No admission will be charged, but a silver offering will be taken to help defray the cost of the picture.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 28—(INS)—Statistics, if you are interested in anything as Gallup-y or dull, prove that the youngsters are our greatest patrons of westerns.

Randolph Scott tells me that he is giving these young fans a western all their own in William S. Warren's "Ride Cowboy Ride." The hero is a 13-year-old boy whose father takes him on his first roundup. Butch Jenkins will get a come-back chance as the boy, Randy, of course, will play the father.

Director Edwin L. Marin suggested the book after he heard his wife reading it for their eight-year-old son.

The idea that Norman Mailer, author of "Naked and the Dead," and Jean Malaquais, French novelist, have in "Night Wind," which they have sold to Samuel Goldwyn, is being kept secret.

I hear it is a drama laid in a broadcasting station—but that is all I know. At any rate, Mailer and Malaquais, who has four novels in English brought out by Doubleday, are working now at the Goldwyn Studio.

With Rita Hayworth's present plan to only make one picture a year, and not to make that one for some time, Columbia is in the market for another big femme star. That is why I am not surprised that a term contract is being discussed with Margaret Sullivan.

tar, expects a baby in March. This will be her second child.

Richard, the little son of Veronica, and Andre De Toth, goes into the hospital for an emergency throat operation. That is why Veronica called off her trip to New York.

Another member of the famed Winston Churchill family, Diana, his niece, is on the London stage. She plays opposite Michael Redgrave in "Love's Labor Lost."

Carl Sandburg, the poet, is in town consulting with MGM biggies about his story, "Remembrance Rock," which MGM has already bought.

Jean Parker and Bob Lowery, Hollywood's newest woo-some, at the Encore.

Ruth Warrick and Carl Neubert, the interior decorator, also at a table for two, same place. Ruth with the same escort at the opera, looked beautiful in all shimmering white satin.

Jeannette MacDonald was another one who looked more beautiful than I've ever seen her, in a dowd-cut white gown.

Sophie Tucker's pals really went to town on getting reservations for her opening night at Ciro's. Phil Harris and Alice Faye, Lou Costello, Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis, the Keenan Wynns, Jack Oakie, were some of those who wired Sophie they would be among those present.

Sophie received a wire from Sheldon Brooks, who wrote "Some of These Days," telling her that on November 8 it will be 40 years since he handed his song to her to introduce. It is still her favorite and most successful number.

Irene Wrightman McEvoy had better come back from New York. Bob Stack is seen everywhere with beautiful Claudette Thornton. They were in the party at the Mocambo which Lynn Wood gave for Peggy Kennedy, daughter of Joe Kennedy. Lex Barker was with Rose Marie Keil again, Ann Miller came with Charles Isaacs, and Dru Malory, the Irish actress, was escorted by Tim Tennyson.

Lex "Tarzan" Barker is taking Chita, the chimp, on a personal appearance tour. Their routine consists of Chita doing everything contrary to what Tarzan orders. Well, that ought to be easy.

Charles Farrell and Virginia Valli among those present when Ernst and Jeanne Geierman opened the Sea Horse in Palm Springs. Mrs. Geierman was formerly on the New York stage and in radio under the name of Jeanne Hart. The bright idea to serve sea food in the desert is hers.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Kamen Dies In Plane Crash

The crash of a French air liner in the Azores yesterday morning took the lives of a former local man and his wife.

Kay Kamen, 56, and his wife, Kate, were listed among the 11 American passengers aboard the big plane which burned after it crashed.

Kamen, who worked at the Kaplon Clothing Store here about 35 years ago, had been associated with the Walt Disney projects about 18 years.

He is president of the Kay Kamen, Ltd., in New York where he and his wife resided. The Kamen firm is known officially as a licensing representative for Walt Disney movie characters.

The Kamens, who were married about 15 years ago, were returning from a business trip to Paris at the time of the crash.

The marriage was the second for Kamen. He has two daughters by his first marriage, Mrs. David Prensky and Mrs. Herbert Dietz, both of New York.

Mrs. Kamen, also a business woman, is well known in fashion circles. She had been active in the shoe and leather industries for many years.

Sam Kaplon, manager of the Kaplon Clothing Store, recalled that Kamen started to work for him at $5 per week. Last year his earnings were reported to have totaled more than $300,000.

Sixteen years old at the time he lived here, Kamen was known as "Mickey," although his real name was Herman Kay. He later dropped the Herman and became known as Kay Kamen.

Kamen's brother, Max, was married to the sister of Mrs. Barnett B. Beneman, this city.

Two Celanese Workers Honored

H. C. Givens, Jr., Celanese plant manager, presented wrist watches to Charles Vincent Rice and Daniel W. Johnson Thursday as they completed 25 years of service with the company.

Rice, a native of Northumberland county, Va., resides at 128 East College Avenue, Prossburg. He received his education in Northumberland county schools and in 1918 started as an apprenticeship as a Chesapeake Bay pilot. Following service in the Navy during World War I, Rice completed his apprenticeship in 1921. He was then employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad as a pilot of a passenger steamer between Baltimore, Washington and Norfolk.

On October 29, 1924, Rice was employed by the Celanese in the Jet Drilling section. He was promoted to foreman of that section in 1936. Johnson, who resides at 647 Sedgwick Street, is a native of Bedford county, Pa. He was educated in Bedford Valley public schools and after graduating from Shippensburg, Pa., State Teachers College he taught for a year in Bedford county.

PIECEMEAL PLANS BAD

MANY AN average player seems to treat each trick as an entirely separate matter, having nothing to do with anything else. Consequently you sometimes see a mistake made which is due solely to the fact that the player did not consider the contract as a whole, but only the situation in the particular suit someone has just led. No play should ever be made for its own sake alone, but only because of its apparently probable influence on the end result.

A truly charming woman exercises daily control over her actions and habits.

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

WHO SAYS clothes don't help make the man or woman? I say they do—and I'll tell you why:
An attractive, well-groomed and fashion-wise woman commands admiration and respect on sight. But even more important are the real "clothes" of character—personality and charm—not always apparent at first sight. You can't buy them. But you can design them. You can make them part of yourself. From an economy standpoint, everyone can afford them—they require no cash outlay, no money for upkeep. They are never out of style. A frequent check-up is advisable, however, as they may be in need of repairs. I call those "clothes."

"Underwraps"

These "underwraps" are the controls you exercise daily over your emotions and habits. They are invaluable to your happiness. So often we think of self-control as referring specifically to temper or anger control. True, that is part of it. No woman can be charming when she's "flying off the handle." No one can admire or respect a tantrum. Temper is complete loss of all poise and manners. Now, righteous indignation is another thing and has its place. But there is nothing righteous about temper that bursts its bounds over the slightest inconvenience or rebuff. Most of us soon learn that one grain of humor can go a long way toward keeping a temper under quiet control.

Equally essential is the control you exercise over your speech. I don't mean the way you talk, or your grammar—although both are important factors to your charm. But can you control the biting urge to gossip—just a wee bit? Do you control any temptation to listen to it? Can you exercise enough control to change the subject tactfully when someone else wants to repeat the latest "back fence" hearsay to you? That is real self-control!

A Wonderful Armor

Does your self-control work effectively against the tendency to procrastinate? The man or woman who can accomplish effectively the day's routine and extra routine activity is no slave to time, but makes times his or her slave. All women are well aware of the phrase "figure-control." You know how important it is to health and good-looks. That, too, is a facet of self-control. I doff my hat to the woman who exercises it. But to control your thinking and speaking habits is even a greater and more glorious feat.

When your "underwraps" are firmly around you and there are no gaping holes or rips, you are literally in a wonderful armor.

VACANT WEST SIDE APARTMENT AND HOUSES

I have a very desirable 6 room West Side apartment as well as a 4 room house either vacant or can soon become so on the West Side as well as other sections of the city. Also a desirable brick semi-bungalow on the Hill Highway and two other properties further away from the city.

Some of these will be rented, if not sold but in most instances the purchasing terms can be arranged so that after a down payment is made you can buy cheaply than you can rent and thus become an owner instead of a tenant.

Will be glad to talk it over with you.

Hitchcock Sets Possible Date For Smoke Talk

Nov. 9 Suggested For Jaycee Meet

George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer, said yesterday he would be willing to attend a special meeting to iron out a disagreement between the Jaycees and the Smoke Control Advisory and Appeal Board.

Hitchcock suggested November 9 as the date for such a meeting, if it is agreeable to board members and the Jaycees.

The smoke abatement engineer said he would be unable to attend at any earlier time because he will be out of town next week, attending a Waterworks Association convention in Washington, D. C.

In a statement Thursday morning, spokesmen for the Junior Association of Commerce took exception to a comment by Board Chairman Charles Z. Heskett or the section of the smoke ordinance dealing with fly ash regulation.

Possibly Applies To Fly Ash
Heskett, at a board meeting this week, opined that the nine-minute limit per hour for emission of No. 2 density smoke probably would also apply to fly ash.

His opinion came in agreement with a comment by John R. Connolly, board member, that a court of law would probably so construe the ordinance, although it sets no specific time limit for emission of fly ash.

In their statement, Robert Little Ebert, Jaycee president, and James Alfred Avirett, chairman of the Jaycee smoke control committee, declared "there is no justification for trying to read into the ordinance an exemption which is not there."

They asked to meet with the board "at the earliest possible date" to discuss the matter.

With regard to the Jaycee statement, Hitchcock commented that "the criticism is premature."

He explained that the time factor relates only to dense smoke, while fly ash is regulated by a limit on the maximum amount of solids which can be discharged from the stacks at any time.

Citizens Protected
Since that regulation exists, Hitchcock added, the ordinance protects citizens against excessive fly ash even though no time limit is specified.

The Jaycee had charged that an implied nine-minute exemption for fly ash would weaken the ordinance.

Hitchcock also commented that Jaycee representatives had been invited to attend the Smoke Control Board meeting but were not present.

Board Chairman Charles Z. Heskett said he plans to confer with other members to determine whether they wish to call a meeting with the Jaycees.

He deferred comment on the Jaycee statement pending further study.

Robinson Gets State News Post

BALTIMORE, Oct. 28 (P)—Elmer Jackson, managing editor of the Evening Capital at Annapolis, was elected president of the Maryland Press Association tonight at a meeting of the board of directors.

He succeeds Blair Lee III, of The Maryland News at Silver Spring, who resigned because he is leaving the weekly newspaper, to accept a position with the Capital Development Commission.

Jackson formerly was a vice president. He is in turn succeeded by Harry H. Robinson, managing editor of THE CUMBERLAND NEWS. A vacancy on the board of directors was not filled.

This afternoon Governor Lane briefly reviewed Maryland's contributions to the nation's governmental system at a meeting of the Association.

"Freedom should be guarded," he added, "and handed over to the next generation intact, so that the children who follow will be glad that we lived."

LSI Men To Meet

The Men of LaSalle Club will meet in Carroll Hall tomorrow immediately after the 11 a. m. mass at St. Patrick's Church.

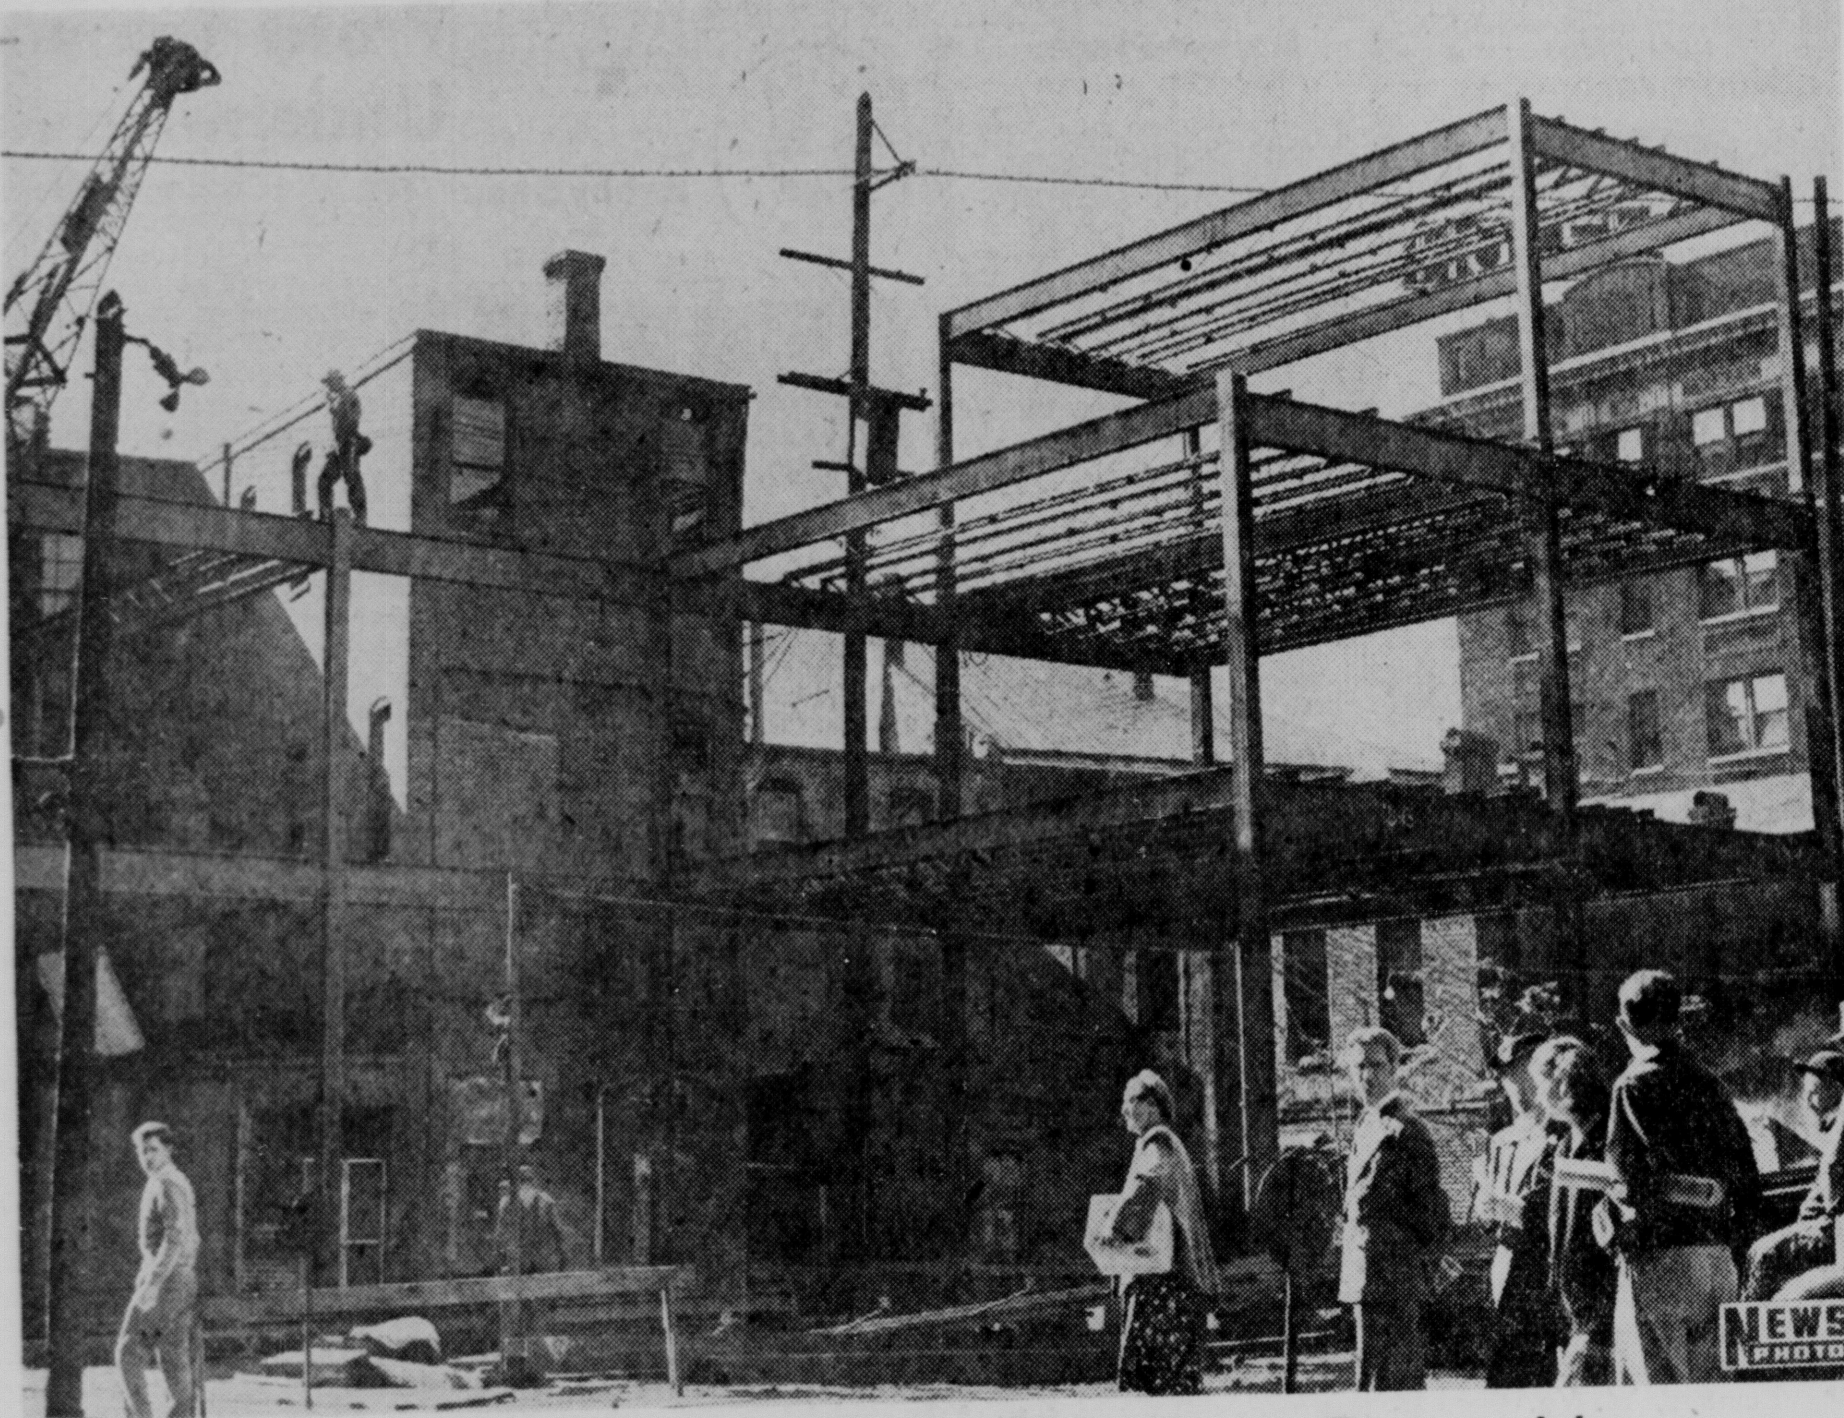

"Dirt Floating Around" Is Problem In Housekeeping, Local Woman Says

A Mapleside resident has joined the growing list of entries in the Jaycee-sponsored letter contest on smoke control.

Mrs. Evan L. Smith, 118 Massachusetts Avenue, says, "With two small children and a six-room home to care for I am very busy. I work hard all day every day. When evening comes I think I have accomplished so much. . . but it certainly is discouraging to be able to trace your name in the dust on the furniture."

She adds, "I have a modern sweeper and attachments. . . but it would have to run continuously all day to keep my home spotless with so much dirt floating around all the time. . . Can't we get together and fight this so we can be more happy, healthy and carefree? We will be tops if we can eliminate smoke."

The letter contest is the first phase of a long-range program on the part of the Jaycees to re-awaken and educate the citizens of Cumberland to the continuing smoke problem.

New Centre Street Store Building Going Up

Steel framework for the two-story store building being erected on North Centre Street is shown being "hung" by the contractor. The building, under construction for several days, will house the Heinrich and Jenkins clothing store, Ward N. Hauger Jewelry Store, and the

Coroner's Jury Terms Mongold Death Natural

Elderly Man Found Dead In Driveway

A Grant County, W. Va., coroner's jury last night decided that an elderly retired laborer found dead in a driveway near Petersburg Thursday morning died of natural causes.

State Police Cpl. F. H. Tribett said the jury's verdict followed testimony of two Petersburg physicians that William S. Mongold, 72, died of a heart attack or of a blood clot in a principal blood vessel.

The physicians, Dr. C. L. Dyer and Dr. J. B. Grove, testified after conducting an autopsy yesterday afternoon. They also reported that a wound on the side of Mongold's head was merely a brush burn.

Mongold's body was found at 7 a. m. Thursday halfway between Route 220 three miles south of Petersburg and the home of Mrs. Annie Stroop, where he had been staying.

Two witnesses Thursday told the coroner's jury they had seen Mongold fighting with an unidentified man near their home.

However, Frank Nelson said Mongold sustained his injuries when he tripped over a flower box and fell from the Nelson porch during a visit Wednesday.

Nelson's daughter, Miss Irene Nelson, yesterday corroborated his testimony. Mrs. Nelson also said she and her husband drove Mongold to his home after she bandaged a cut over his right eye.

The Nelsons said they saw Mongold start up the driveway of his home at about 8:30 p. m. Wednesday. The physicians said he died shortly after.

Another witness, Bud Reel, told the jury he was first on the scene after Mongold fell, and helped the aged man to his feet. He said the mark on Mongold's forehead was present immediately after the fall.

H. E. J. Oates, Grant County coroner, headed the six-man jury, and Acting Prosecuting Attorney K. C. VanMeter, Jr., Petersburg, led the investigation, assisted by Cpl. Tribett and Sheriff Roswell Alt.

Seek Beer Permit

An application for a beer and wine license was filed at the office of the clerk of court yesterday by Clarence I. Minnick and Gildo J. Bogatti, Valley Road.

The Men of LaSalle Club will meet in Carroll Hall tomorrow immediately after the 11 a. m. mass at St. Patrick's Church.

Authorities said Pfister, arrested at 4:25 by Lt. E. R. Lilya, is AWOL from the Army.

Barton Seniors Do Reversal On Halloween Idea

A group of students from the senior class of Barton High School delighted and surprised residents of their community with an unusual reversal of the Halloween idea.

Instead of knocking on doors or ringing door bells with a "trick or treat" threat, they delivered to a number of homes neatly wrapped gifts, leaving them on porches.

When asked about the activity they merely said they were trying to make it a better Halloween for everyone.

First Ridgeley Beauty Contest Is Set Tonight

An open house Halloween party, in conjunction with a beauty contest to select "Miss Ridgeley of 1949," will be held tonight at 9 o'clock at the home of Knobley Mountain Post No. 136, American Legion, in Ridgeley.

The affair, which is open to the public, is sponsored jointly by the Legion and the Ladies Auxiliary.

Seven girls, all students at Ridgeley High School, will compete for the title in the beauty contest, which will be the first of its kind ever held in the community.

Contestants, who will appear in evening gowns, are the Misses Della Elkins, Nancy Leacock, Pauline Giovanni, Carol Dersin, Joan Lockard, Roberta Burkhardt and Clara Herschberger.

Winners will be selected by applause from the audience. "Miss Ridgeley" will receive a cash prize of $5, and the runner-up will receive a bouquet of roses.

Prizes are being donated by the Ladies Auxiliary.

Other events on the program will include a children's amateur hour, with grade school and high school students taking part. Team and individual prizes will be awarded.

Twenty-two contestants will participate.

In addition, the first 20 children arriving at the party will receive gifts to be presented at the door by Mrs. Robert Edenhart and Mrs. Robert Zimmerman.

They are members of the Auxiliary committee in charge of arrangements, which is headed by Mrs. Roland Tabler, historian and chairman of the unit's welfare committee.

William Knieriem, a member of the board of trustees of the Legion post, will serve as master of ceremonies for the evening.

Other committee members, Mrs. Nellie France and Mrs. Sherwood Barker, will be in charge of a "country store" which will display food and soft drinks donated by Ridgeley stores.

Refreshments will be in charge of Mrs. Emma Ridgeley, Mrs. Roy McCullough, Mrs. William Bosley and Mrs. Lillian Duer.

Also assisting Mrs. Tabler are Mrs. William McCullough and Mrs. Homer Borror.

Judges, Prizes Announced For South End Party

Halloween Program Plans Completed

Twenty-seven major prizes including merchandise items and hundreds of free gifts for the children will be presented at the Halloween Street Carnival Monday night on Virginia Avenue, and $200 in cash awards will be distributed to the costumed merry-makers on Baltimore Street, following the annual 40 and 8 Cumberland Halloween Parade.

Galen Storer, chairman of the South Cumberland phase of the festivity, also announced the appointment of judges for the Virginia Avenue celebration, after emphasizing the fact that the parade will start at Laing Avenue and the South End Business Men are co-operating with the parade as well as their own street carnival.

The judges include Rev. Donald Brake, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church; Rev. Fr. Landrigan, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church; Victor D. Heisey, principal of Fort Hill High School; Mrs. Lee W. Witherup, executive secretary of the local Red Cross, and Mrs. Alva Davis.

Preliminary judging will start as soon as the parade passes, with a group of preliminary judges moving through the crowd to select the finalists.

Then at 9:30 p. m., Storer said, finalists will assemble at the South Cumberland Bank, Second Street and Virginia Avenue, where the judges' stand is located. Here awards will be presented to 27 prize winning costumes.

Judging will be done in three age groups with prizes for the most original, funniest and fanciest costumes. Age groups are up to 12 years; 13 to 19 years; and adults.

Miss Norma LeVall, Football Queen of Fort Hill, will assist James G. "Scotty" Stevenson in distribution of candy, fruit and comic books to children.

The parade is scheduled to form at Laing and Virginia Avenues at 7 p. m. Monday and will move uptown to Baltimore Street. After the parade passes Virginia Avenue, that street will be roped off between First and Fifth, to permit the merry-makers of that area to have a street carnival without the long trek uptown, Storer said.

Edgar Reynolds, chairman for 40 and 8, said Baltimore Street will be roped off, street dancing will be featured, and loud speakers erected to broadcast music. Judges will be stationed along the line of march to award prizes.

In addition to the two street celebrations, Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, will hold open house at their Harrison Street headquarters with a dance featuring music by the Starlighters. Favors will be distributed.

Chest Exceeds $83,745 Goal By Over $200

Final Reports Show Total $83,961.15

The Cumberland Community Chest went "over the top" yesterday, with final reports bringing the total to $83,961.15, more than $200 over the goal of $83,745.21.

Only one of the three sections, the Advance Gifts classification, exceeded its goal.

The section, headed by Henry W. Price, reported a total of $40,193, more than $1,000 over its goal of $39,000. Price reported seven new subscriptions totaling $140.

Mrs. John S. Cook's residential section reported subscriptions of $4,127.85, or $31.50 more than the last report. The section's quota was $5,000.

The classified section, headed by Winfield S. Adam, reported $39,640.20, or $913 over its last figure, but short of the $39,745 goal.

Roy W. Eves, general chairman of the campaign, said last night: "It is very gratifying to raise $83,961.15, even though it will cover only minimum budgets of the nine Chest agencies in a year when they can anticipate increased needs and demands for their services."

"The more than 300 citizens who worked so faithfully to achieve this goal earned and deserve the gratitude of the entire community."

Frederic W. Eller, Chest president, also expressed appreciation of the Chest and said:

"The winning of this campaign is something of which every Cumberlander can be proud. A successful Community Chest is vital to a progressive city, and this winning campaign is another proof that Cumberland is progressive and will continue to be a good place in which to live."

A breakdown of the classified section figures shows new subscriptions of $47 in Miles G. Thompson's automotive division; $5 in the finance division, headed by George A. Caswell; $84 in the mercantile division, headed by L. V. Shinnamon; $47 in Robert L. Ebert's professional commodities division; $75 in the professional division, headed by H. B. Marley; $28 in William H. Buchholz's government division; $135 in James W. Bishop's manufacturing division; $150 from the Celanese headed by L. L. Helmer and P. F. Happe, and $136 from railroads, by Earl C. Robertson.

Chest officials said they expect some additional reports to be submitted in the next few days.

The campaign had been scheduled to end October 14, but was extended to October 19 when it fell short of its goal by $3,000. When about $400 was needed at the October 19 date, the drive was extended indefinitely.

Third Firm Plans For PE Tests

Representatives of the Smokeater Corporation, Washington, D. C., visited Cumberland yesterday to make arrangements for proposed fly ash tests at the river plant of the Potomac Edison Company, according to George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer.

However, no word has been received as yet from PE officials in Hagerstown regarding the date when the series of tests will start, Hitchcock said.

Two other companies, Acorn Refinery of Cleveland and National Aluminate of Chicago, have already expressed "definite interest" in conducting catalytic tests here to reduce fly ash.

Plans are being completed for the fall and winter youth program at Central YMCA, according to Winfield H. Adam, general secretary.

Activities, which will include several new clubs, will get underway this Tuesday, November 1.

"Learn to dance" classes will be held every Tuesday afternoon from 4 to 5 p. m. for junior high school boys and girls, with fox-trot and first steps to be taught. The first class will meet November 1 and the course will continue for six weeks.

A new program is being organized for boys eight to 11 years of age and their fathers. The club, to be named "Y" Indian Guides, is especially designed for groups of boys living in the same neighborhood.

Another new organization will be Gra-Y Clubs to be formed for boys 9 to 11 years old, who will choose their own program of activities, such as trips, parties, sports and hobbies.

A "Minnow Club" will be formed for boys who have passed their "minnow test" in swimming and want to become better swimmers. A

Roving Pickets Reported Seen In Coal Areas

Westernport Loading Tipple Being Watched

Bands of roving pickets were reported yesterday and Thursday in sections of the Upper Potomac and George's Creek Coal Regions, but picketing was peaceful and there was no trouble or violence, authorities said.

About 100 pickets were reported in the Barton-Westernport section, and about 25 were reported in the Mineral County area in the vicinity of Elk Garden, W. Va.

Sheriff Edward R. Muir said his office here had received a couple of calls saying pickets were out at Barton. Two deputes went there, but when they arrived the pickets had dispersed. Investigation showed, the Sheriff said, that there had been no trouble.

Stop At Loading Tipple
Yesterday, about five auto loads of pickets from the Barton-Lonaconing area also stopped at the Brashers mines near Barton, but merely stood about. A short time later, a group believed to have been the same crowd, stopped at Brashers' loading tipple near Bruce High School in Westernport. Coal from the Brashers mine, officials said, is hauled by truck to the tipple where it is loaded on to Western Maryland Railway coal cars.

Sheriff's deputies said they had checked several coal operations in the county where men were reported working and where there had been complaints of picketing. The amount of coal being mined in this county is described as "very, very limited."

The Sheriff's office personnel has taken a middle of the road stand on the question and both union pickets and management have been informed that no violence will be tolerated, deputies said.
